

*Earth Mother
Our Womb of Life*

your brother

authorHOUSE®

AuthorHouse™
1663 Liberty Drive
Bloomington, IN 47403
www.authorhouse.com
Phone: 1-800-839-8640

©2008, 2011 Your brother. All rights reserved.

No part of this book may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted by any means without the written permission of the author.

First published by AuthorHouse 10/20/2011

ISBN: 978-1-4634-8750-8 (sc)

ISBN: 978-1-4634-8749-2 (e)

Library of Congress Control Number: 2011916033

Printed in the United States of America

Any people depicted in stock imagery provided by Thinkstock are models, and such images are being used for illustrative purposes only.

Certain stock imagery © Thinkstock.

This book is printed on acid-free paper.

Because of the dynamic nature of the Internet, any web addresses or links contained in this book may have changed since publication and may no longer be valid. The views expressed in this work are solely those of the author and do not necessarily reflect the views of the publisher, and the publisher hereby disclaims any responsibility for them.

Acknowledgements

This book is sent forth with gratitude to our Earth Mother, from whom I have received everything that makes it possible, and to those mentors who have patiently led me to understand what is truly meaningful in our existence upon the Earth. I am indebted to the others of our circle whose contributions are felt within this work; with special thanks to my wife and helpmate, whose patience and support helped me see this precious project through to its completion.

I am grateful to White Tiger for assisting my native father during a difficult time, and who was kind enough to save many of my father's online chat dialogues while they were still available, then forward them for my use. Some of my mentor's words, quoted in the book, are from those dialogues.

Contents

Acknowledgements

Preface To The Second Edition

Since The First Edition	x
Ancient Knowledge Restored	xi
About This Book.	xv

Introduction

The Heart of The Book.	xx
Earth Mother	xxi
Our Evolutionary Cycle	xxiii
Earth Mother's Warnings	xxv
The Importance of Creation And Nature	xxvi
About Fear & Our Relationship To God.	xxix
Meekness – The Importance of Humility	xxx

Chapter 1

Sacred Truths Preserved By Native Peoples	1
Two Fundamental Ideas	8
Our Relationship and Duty to the Earth.	9
Earth Mother & Her Sacred Heart	13
Creation and Evolution – One Process	17

Chapter 2

An Overview.	23
A Brief Summary	23
A Broader View	30
The Root & Offspring of The Earth	34
Our Living Universe: Seen and Unseen.	36
Nature's Progressive Plan.	37
Our Future Choices & The Great Deception	45
The Unholy Time and It's Glamorous Illusion	47

Figures

Figure 1 - The Sunflower Sand Painting.	53
Figure 2 – Sunflower Sand Painting: 4 th World Position	54
Figure 3 - The Sunflower Sand Painting: Stages & Worlds.	55
Figure 4 - Our Inner-Terrestrial Planets Before the Last Purification	56

Figure 5 - Our Inner Planets Now After the Last Purification	57
Figure 6 - Our Inner Planets After the Next Purification	58
Figure 7 - Cross-Section of Earth and Her Core-Heart	59

Chapter 3

God’s Evolutionary Process	61
The Sacred Path of Migration And Punctuated Equilibria.	61
Origin of Life Conference.	62
The Hidden Egg – Egg Mysteries	66
The Hidden Core-Moon & Earth Changes.	70
The Sacred Path or Pattern of Migration.	73
Sense Perception and Density Spectra.	76

Chapter 4

Time.	79
Division of Time / Split-Time / Space-Time (Time-As-Direction) . .	86
Defection From Space-Time And Need To Ensnare New Inhabitants	87
Preparing To Remain With the Earth	89
Hell: Devolved To Live In Darkness	92
Concluding Thoughts, Fear Tactics and God’s New Beginning	96
Some Final Pointers	98

Appendices

Appendix 1 Words Of A Native Mentor	105
On Departure From A Website.	105
Appendix 2 Earth Mother.	115
Earth Heart	116
Hymn of the Mother of all Living.	120
Appendix 3 Time	122
Appendix 4 Illuminating Scripture	126
On Man Being Created in the Image of God	126
Pointing The “Arrow” Back To heaven	128
The Steadfast, Immovable Race.	130
Appendix 5 Rebirth And Karma	132
Rebirth: Replanted In The Earth.	132
Karma.	134
Appendix 6 Satyagraha – Nonviolent Resistance.	137
A Song To Earth.	143

Preface To The Second Edition

My primary purpose in writing the first edition was to reveal the knowledge of our Earth Mother and Purification Time as soon as possible. When there were repeated delays in making final corrections to the grammar and punctuation, and since I was satisfied with the book's content and accuracy at that point, I chose to publish it as it was. With this second edition I've endeavored to improve every facet of the writing before approving its publication. Accordingly, following the publication of this edition, the first edition will be withdrawn. I have done my best to further clarify the information; so whether you read the earlier edition, or not, this one should help better your understanding of our Earth Mother, our relationship to Her, and the Purification cycle we have reentered.

I have made some additions to this edition. Since publication of the first edition, Purification Time has advanced, with signs of its progress becoming more obvious. I've noted some of these indications below in "Since The First Edition." I have also added a short summary of the most important concepts to understand, which should prove a helpful overview as you read through the book, and will help keep you focused on what best to retain. This new section is found at the end of the Introduction, entitled "The Heart of The Book." A poem I have written in tribute to our Mother Earth, A Song To The Earth, is found following the appendices.

I have utilized the same data presented in the first edition for showing the warming of the Antarctic seas. Readers are invited to research newer data for updated information.

It is hoped that this book may find its way to many people during the stormy times ahead, and that it may be used to help people follow a true course through the confusion and deceitfulness ahead of us. The knowledge contained in this book is rightfully yours, it belongs to you!

Since The First Edition

Since the first edition was published, the world has gone through chaotic times, as forecast to occur during Purification Time. But what we have seen recently is a small sample of coming turmoil, as the time of the Fourth World grows shorter, and the Earth's birth pains become more intense.

Although there is debate over increased earthquake and volcanic activity during recent times, some data is certain. There is a clear global trend of larger magnitude earthquakes (7.0 or >) in recent decades. DL Research reports— using the U.S. Geological Service and Wikipedia as their sources— that in the period from 1997-2007 there were 99 earthquakes with a magnitude 7.0 or greater, “more than a six-fold increase over the previous eleven year period,” and a conspicuous increase over earlier decades in the 20th century. According to the U.S. Geological Service: of the largest earthquakes in the world since the year 1900, five of the top twelve, and three of the top six have occurred since 2004.

Beginning in the year 1900, for each 38 year period, the same sources indicate 53 magnitude 7.0 or greater earthquakes (1901-1938), and 71 (1939-1976). Extrapolating another 38 years (1977-2015) - 167 as of March, 2011 - we get c. 183, that's assuming a constant rate rather than a continuing escalation, which would make the number higher. These facts affirm a growing trend of large earthquakes (independent of humankind's technological involvement).

This earthquake activity, as well as continuing severe weather/storms and other geo-disturbances, are to be anticipated as the Earth's labor pains escalate, approaching the birth of Her Core.

Strange behavior in the Earth's electromagnetic field has become more noticeable in recent years. Changes to the Earth's magnetosphere are to be expected, from adjustments of the inner Core in preparation for its birth, and as our sun, and entire solar system, progress through this Purification cycle. For humankind, the crux of these matters centers on our Mother Earth, and Her life giving Core-Heart.

It is good to bear in mind that although Nature's tribulations may be increasing— like the birth pains of a laboring mother – the end of these painful labors is something wonderful, to be welcomed not feared. Those who understand the meaning of the changes taking place, joyfully embrace them, as manifestations of the paradise our Earth is laboring to become.

Ancient Knowledge Restored

As a young man in the 1960s I met my first spiritual mentor, outwardly a learned Latin man and teacher, but, unbeknown to most, a wise and spiritually gifted elder quietly serving our world. Thus began my learning of the deeper truths of life, some of which I had read about, but which I then began experiencing firsthand. From our discussions and the remarkable experiences that occurred in the company of my mentor, I perceived a larger reality to life and Nature than I had known in my earlier experiences. As our time together progressed, my awareness and loving empathy with others expanded, as I realized more of my potential; a potential I came to appreciate lies within everyone.

My spiritual research and studies continued through the years, along with higher education covering a broad spectrum of sciences, psychology, and philosophy. During the ensuing years, I met another mentor, a Native American priest - a member of the higher religious order of his people - who broadened my awareness and understanding of the workings of the universe, and especially of our wondrous Mother Earth. As allowed within the traditions of his people, he adopted me, becoming a second father to me, and I, a son to him, as well as making me a member of his people. His gentleness, compassion, and wisdom will never leave my mind and heart.

It was made clear to me that the information being restored belongs to everyone. It pertains to the most hallowed truths of our Mother Earth, our deep roots within Her life, and to the operation of Nature which will soon bring about profound changes to our world and sun system. Subsequently, I spent two years with my native mentor, helping to pass on this information to others. According to the direction of my heart, I have continued sharing this knowledge wherever I can, including on the Internet, in a college project, and now in this book where it is hoped that our Earth Mother's message will reach a larger audience.

In recent times, dreams and visions, together with the prophetic signs now around us in the world, made it clear to holy people across the Earth that the end-cycle of this World Age had arrived. To help prepare us for very important choices related to this period, some members of the higher religious orders, who know of this cycle, have begun openly sharing their sacred knowledge with the world.

Some of this knowledge can be used as a sign of proof: when we see the predicted events come to pass, it will help our wavering faith in our Earth Mother to be strengthened.

The ancient cycle of Earth changes, and evolutionary progress, has been known by different names throughout history: The Day of Resurrection, Pachacuti, The Day of Purification or Purification Time, The Period of Great Tribulation, The Earth's Birth Pains, Judgment Day, and The Last Days, among others. For purposes of this book, I will refer to this cycle as Purification Time, or Purification, because of the simplicity and clarity of these terms.

Any elders who do not agree with sharing this knowledge would no doubt disapprove of what follows; but, others, responding to their visions, to the prophetic signs about us, and to their instructions concerning this period, know it is their duty to share it now as a giveaway to all of the Earth's children. To not speak of this knowledge would be a betrayal of their sworn duty to the Earth and Great Spirit. Without a shadow of a doubt, restoring the truth about our Earth and Purification Time - the main focus of this book - cannot serve any wrong purpose. To not speak of them now would be a "brevatio manus Domini"— a foreshortening of the hand of God.

It should be noted for the record that indigenous peoples comprise a large variety of differences in their socio-political structures, subsistence practices, and religions. The stereotypical view of Native Americans as the Plains Tribes - the generally dark skinned horse nomads hunting buffalo - is a myth created mostly from images formed from the Wild West shows of Buffalo Bill, and from the works of artists who focused upon Plains Indians, especially George Catlin.

This stereotypical view of one identity for all Indians (Pan Indianism), fostered in the Plains Indian stereotype, continued through most of the twentieth century, perpetuated by movies, television, and popular fiction. In fact, according to the general consensus of our present anthropological knowledge, North American Indians are a mix of peoples who migrated by land and sea from Asia, Europe, and South Pacific islands, and who subsequently adapted to the different climates, geography, and ecological conditions of the culture areas where they settled.

Notwithstanding the differences among indigenous peoples, there is generally a common respect for Nature and a living Earth, an acceptance of supernatural power, and an attitude of living in balance with all life. It should also be noted that, within traditional native communities, there are often higher religious orders who are initiated in the most sacred knowledge held by their people, knowledge not known to the general membership of the community. The knowledge contained in this book has been passed to us by those who are keepers of their peoples' highest, most holy knowledge.

My background provides me with two different points of view, two different worldviews from which to see and understand the universe: one, from my upbringing and education in mainstream America; and the other, from my training and experiences as an adopted member (according to their traditions) of a native people. This dual background affords me the opportunity to act as a bridge between two worldviews, hopefully, to better communicate different and sometimes conflicting ideas and values between cultures. I know that one of my mentors hoped that my understanding of modern Western people would allow me to better communicate to them, the knowledge, and warnings, being restored at this important time.

The examples of my wise and loving mentors are ever before me as I pass on this message to you as a brother, helping my brothers and sisters to better appreciate our Earth Mother, and the important choices we will all soon have to make.

About This Book

To honor the request of those involved, names and other personal details have been omitted from the text, so we may focus upon the meaningful information provided rather than upon personalities, and so that others may be protected from harm due to strong religious and political feelings surrounding these matters in some circles. I can tell you that the first name, of my first mentor, was Antonio, and that the name used by my native mentor on the Internet was Wikimahaw.

Those of you who had the opportunity of meeting my adoptive, native father on the Internet, now have the chance to receive the knowledge he shared in full, something not possible within the limits of his online visits, not long before his death. I have included some of his words throughout the text, which you may recognize from his posts, and chats, on the Internet. Appendix 1 provides a brief account of our Earth Mother, Purification Time, and those in Space-Time in Wikimahaw's own words - his final post on a website set up for his use. As he would have liked, I have done a small amount of editing of his words, to help make his meaning clearer.

No special meaning or favor should be inferred from my references to various indigenous peoples or religious texts. I have simply drawn from those peoples and writings, known to me, whose knowledge helps illuminate the topics under discussion.

In writing this book I have utilized what I've learned from those versed in these sacred subjects, drawing upon memories of our discussions, the writings they provided to be shared with everyone, and holy writings from different cultures and religions. If at times I present an idea authoritatively, without reference to its source, you can regard the source of that knowledge being one or more of my mentors.

As a messenger, I have attempted to write simply and concisely, at certain places translating the ancient beliefs into modern ideas and language, to help make the concepts more easily understood. I have made these conversions carefully, drawing upon my scientific background and native learning to help me stay true to both ancient and modern conceptions.

My overriding concern has been to write the clearest, most accurate, most easily understood book using the best words available (in my estimation) to accomplish that goal. If there are any errors in these pages, they are due to my imperfect presentation, not from the pure, original knowledge, or those who shared it with me. Any errors I may have introduced are to be found in the details, not in the general concepts and processes that are described.

The information in this book is offered with an open-hand, to take, or leave, as you wish. After studying the ideas, it is your right to freely accept, or dismiss, any, or all, of what is held out to you in these pages. Before you accept this information, you should carefully examine it, ask questions, and probe it with mind and heart to find its truths for yourself.

Unfortunately, in recent decades - with a greater interest in alternative worldviews and indigenous peoples in particular - some non-native people have stolen from aboriginal cultures, using native knowledge and ceremony without permission or proper training, often by people interested solely in financial gain, the farthest purpose from this book. As described earlier, the knowledge being sent forth in these pages is a giveaway: information which is rightfully ours, restored and freely sent to us at the end of this age, when it is needed.

To help keep the price of the book down, I've set it at the lowest price allowed by the publisher, so it can reach as many people as possible, and to protect the book's content and use. You can also save money by ordering an e-book (electronic copy) from the publisher's website at a low cost. As this work is a giveaway, I offer the e-book as a free download on the website of a friend: www.dancingawakethefifthworld.com. If for some reason this website becomes unavailable in the future, look for mine (not yet created), or another I will use for the same purpose.

I hope that what you read in these pages will be clear to you, so in the coming days you can recognize what is truly important from what is not, and to help you know your profound connections to our living Earth. Some of the ideas presented have been given repetitively, building upon them, in my attempt to make them easier to understand and remember. Chapter 2 provides overviews of the information being restored, subsequent chapters go into greater detail of the material discussed in the overviews.

I recommend reading the book more than once, especially Chapter 4, which elaborates upon "Time," and the appendices, which will help allow a greater grasp of the ideas. If after reading the book you are still uncertain of its meaning, or of any of the information provided, write me with your questions through the publishing company, and I will do my best to answer.

Some writers and lecturers, who are exposing the existence and agendas of powerful groups hidden to the world, focus upon the darker matters rather than highlighting the positive truths, which are the most important ones to hold close. Although it is good to expose the dark elements secretly influencing our world, we should not dwell upon them, especially to the exclusion or devaluing of the holy presence and purpose within life, for which our Earth exists. As written in the Apocrypha, Book of Esdras, 9:13:

“...And therefore be thou not curious how the ungodly shall be punished, and when: but enquire how the righteous shall be saved, whose the world is, and for whom the world is created...”

After reflecting upon this knowledge and the events herein predicted, as your minds and hearts recognize the truth, I hope you will feel the responsibility that comes with knowing it: a duty to help your brothers and sisters realize the importance of the Earth to their lives and futures; and to help them endure with the Earth through all that is to come. As a mentor once counseled: “those who reach the Fifth World help bring many others with them.”

Introduction

First and foremost, regardless of the various subjects discussed, this book is about our Mother Earth. The book's title reflects this central topic. It is my deep hope that you will keep this in mind, focusing upon how everything contained in these pages relates to the Earth, our womb of life.

I have undertaken this project as a loving duty to our Earth Mother, and especially for you, Her children. In this respect, I am a messenger, someone who has been privileged to receive this knowledge, passing it on to my brothers and sisters of the world. This information is being restored to help us remember all the Earth is, does, and means to us, so we can rejoin Her as informed, appreciative children who will always give Her our full trust; and, to prepare us for the extremely important choice we are forewarned will soon arise. This choice pertains to our Earth Mother, and our covenant with the Great Spirit.

We have now entered our Earth's final birthing cycle, sometimes called Purification Time, when by our choices we will progress forward to great reward, or, tragically, go backwards. This Purification cycle heralds the endpoint of our long journey upon the Earth, the coming of what some indigenous people refer to as the Fifth World, and other people heaven, which has been foretold and prophesied about throughout the ages.

Many in this age focus only upon our internal, spiritual progress forgetting, or never having learned, that this inner progress is only one half of our journey, the other evolutionary half being completed by Nature within creation. We can ignore our "outer" journey in Nature for a time, but we cannot escape it. The changes and choices of Purification Time have already begun, and will proceed to their future conclusions.

This is a time to regain an understanding of the imminence of our Creator; how our lives have not arisen upon some far distant shore, but were wrought beneath our feet within our own living Earth, who will soon carry Her immovable children to their crowning life.

The Heart of The Book

After being raised within a particular worldview, it is difficult to step out of it, seeing the world in an entirely new light; one in which the Earth is a great living being filled with the life, consciousness, and power of God, from whom we are given life and all we possess; one where the Earth has been carrying us through the ages, evolving us from stage-to-stage toward a perfected form in the heavenly orbit of the Morning Star. But this understanding is what we need to safely travel through this Purification Time.

When approaching new and different knowledge, it is best to keep our minds open, as we did as children, permitting new information to find its rightful place in our minds and hearts. We are being asked, “who has ears to hear?”

This section is the book in a nutshell. The rest of the book expounds upon these core ideas, explaining them in greater detail to make them as clear as possible, and to help maintain a clear overview of the most important concepts as you read through the book. The following essential ideas will be discussed here:

- 1) Earth Mother: A true comprehension of the Earth, our relationship to Her and Her calendar Time; and how humankind's earliest existence, present development, and future destiny all depend upon our Mother Earth.

- 2) Our Evolutionary Cycle: The meaningfulness of the universe, with its purposeful design progressing life through an evolutionary cycle operating in Nature. How we have reentered one of those cycles within our solar system, which for the Earth is the final step to our perfected life.
- 3) Warnings & Time: Warnings sent to educate and protect us from an unexpected and deceptive choice forecast to arise in the days ahead. This choice relates to a "Time-frame" not meant for us. The forthcoming choice to remain immovable from the Earth, or not, will decide our futures.
- 4) Creation, Nature & Death: How our progress is both internal (personal spiritual development), AND through Nature's direct involvement; and the understanding that dying on Earth is nothing to fear. Death is a normal part of our progress, as natural as breathing.

Earth Mother

A proper appreciation of our Earth Mother begins by understanding that the universe is filled with the life of the Great Spirit, and that the Earth is our most imminent expression of that omnipresent, conscious intelligence, from whom life comes "down" to us. As new as this idea may be to some, Mother Earth is our nearest expression of the Godhead, whose "inner" fatherly life is known to us by different names within the religions of the world.

This is a startling idea to many in our modern era, an idea once known and then lost through the ages. This knowledge is being restored now by our Earth Mother, to help us remember all She means to us, and to protect us from treachery that would take us from Her, just as She is about to reward Her faithful children with their highest life.

Most people have felt a special peace when spending time in Nature, especially in undisturbed, wilderness areas of the Earth. Watching the grand circle of the Earth's life operate so harmoniously, speaks volumes about the wisdom and intelligence behind it.

How many stanzas in the springtime breeze?
How plenty the raindrops? As He doth please.
There is no meter and there is no rhyme,
Yet God's poems always read in perfect time.
~ Astrid Alauda

That same universal, fatherly intelligence, honored by many indigenous peoples down the ages, lies close beneath our feet in our Mother Earth.

The world is charged with the grandeur of God...
~ Gerard Manley Hopkins

The Hopi refer to our living Earth Mother in their highest spirit law, Tutskwa Iqatsi, Land and Life are one: the Earth's body is our Land (feminine-Mother), and Her inner Core-Heart is Her Life (masculine-Father). The bible itself refers to a wise and intelligent earth, when it states: "...speak to the earth and it shall teach thee..." (Job 12:8)

How much do we owe to the Earth – the one who gives us life, a home, all we possess, and carries us toward our highest existence?

With that question in mind, what should we return to Her? - our gratitude, loving devotion, trust and loyalty? Have we not been charged to love our Creator with all our heart, soul, mind, and strength? What we owe, and should deservedly return to our Earth Mother, is a question left for each of us to answer.

Our Evolutionary Cycle

Perhaps the greatest difference between native and other religions is this: we believe in God and evolution. We believe God's greatest work is through evolution. God is the divine artist; evolution is the divine art. Evolution is God's Kiln, and man is still in the making.

(Native American Priest)

There is a cyclical process in Nature which moves life forward upon each mother world. This advancement of life requires the linear, calendar time we are provided by our Mother Earth. The periodic movements and evolutionary progress within this cycle occur at the end of Purification Times, when each world flies closer to the sun, and the life upon it is evolved to a higher stage due to the excitation present during these times.

This provides a complete picture of evolutionary change, which scientists do not yet fully grasp. They know evolution occurs, but there are problems with the idea of gradual evolution, due to missing successions of transitional forms in the fossil record. When we understand that evolution occurs after long intervals of uniformity (at Purification Times), much becomes clearer. Punctuated evolution, which agrees with the fossil record, is now a scientific theory called Punctuated Equilibria, a theory that agrees with the knowledge preserved from ancient times. When creation and evolution are not seen to be in opposition, so much becomes clear.

Our solar system has entered into another Purification cycle. For the Earth it is the final one, advancing Her to the crowning place of our system. As described above, at the end of Purification Times life is evolved to more advanced species adapted to live in their new environs. This progressive process, unheard-of to most in our day, is known as The Sacred Path of Migration. Following the Earth's migration to its new position and density, humankind will evolve to an incorruptible form in an earthly paradise, where all live together in harmony.

The Sacred Path of Migration specifies the importance of remaining upon our mother world, from earliest beginnings to our completed forms, in what some indigenous peoples call the Fifth World. We have a contract with our Creator to remain in the calendar Time given us on Earth, allowing us to evolve forward toward the heavenly Fifth World, and our completed evolutionary life.

Here are some words from my native father on our evolution to the Fifth World (emphases are his).

When we reach (the Fifth World) we will be COMPLETE... Earth Mother will remove the blindfold from our eyes and our minds. She will give us the knowledge to all the mysteries. And because we will be PERFECT, we will not abuse the universal truths. We will then be the guardians of our younger, unevolved brothers and sisters.

I sometimes hear people speaking about our "ascension" - something they perceive as solely internal, carrying us beyond creation. But the universe is very important to us, as we have travelled across the ages with the Earth to be where we are now, as Homo sapiens. We are not yet finished along that evolutionary journey, but are about to receive our perfected lifeforms at the end of this Purification cycle.

Earth Mother's Warnings

Within creation there is another road we can choose. This other road is alluring, but when taken breaks our covenants with God, removing us from the Earth and our coming completed life with Her. Native priests know this ungodly road relates to “Time-as-direction,” the reason compass directions are honored among peoples going far back in history. “Time-as-direction” is an incomplete knowledge of Time, allowing entry into a Time-structure not meant for us while we are still unfinished in our evolutionary development, as we are now.

Those in-the-know have secretly been using this Time-structure for many centuries to gain wealth and power. The knowledge preserved by native peoples warns that this Time reality will soon be announced to the world, and made to look wonderful in order to entice us into going there. Those who fall prey to this deception, abandoning their Earth Mother for the forbidden Time, must finally prey upon others to sustain their lives. They need us there for that dark purpose, but we certainly do not need them.

Down the ages this unholy Time-frame has been spoken of as an abomination, an accursed place devoid of godliness. Those who fall into the snare used to lure us there will be making a tragic mistake that leads to devolution - to what the bible speaks of as “beasts” and “outer darkness.” The Hopi also warn of this zig-zag road (unlike the straight-line, linear Time on Earth) leading to oblivion, as shown on their Prophecy Rock. If we follow our hearts, remaining immovable from the Earth, we are on a safe course, the true road to our perfected life.

The Importance of Creation And Nature

As alluded to earlier, many people today see our spiritual progress as an internal process alone, occurring over one lifetime, or many. But elders counsel that our progress depends upon both our internal purity (personal spiritual development) AND Nature's direct involvement at the end of Purification cycles (evolution). At those times our mother world moves-up in our system, and life is further evolved. Those of Earth's loyal children, who have worked to improve themselves and remained immovable, are then evolved to their next highest stage of life. During our present Purification cycle, humanity will have the opportunity to take the final step up the evolutionary ladder to our perfected, incorruptible lifeforms.

Although our progress depends upon our internal purity and Nature's part in evolving life, this book concerns itself more with the latter process, which is less understood and especially needed now.

Our progress normally occurs over a series of lifetimes. Following death, the Earth holds us within Her great life, later returning us to a new lifetime to continue our growth. Within this process, death is not fearful, but necessary and natural, a normal part of our ongoing, evolutionary progress. In past ages, and continuing among many traditional native peoples today, death is respected and honored rather than feared, and recognized as an essential part of our progress on Earth.

It is impossible that anything so natural, so necessary, and so universal as death, should ever have been designed by Providence as an evil to mankind.

- Jonathan Swift

In the following, my native father shares his words about death (speaking to his granddaughter).

Do not be afraid to die, my granddaughter. You want to live forever in this form you have now in this Fourth World, where even children die of hunger, and no water, and getting very sick with many diseases, and wicked people are going around hurting and killing? Or do you want to go to the Fifth World, where there is no more struggling? Maybe you would speak to me: “when will these things be happening? I don’t want to die a young woman!” I answer you: “be strong hearted!” Every day, even small children and newborn babies are dying, and women younger than you are dying, and many young men going to war are dying. In 110 years all creatures alive today will be gone and replaced by new creatures. To be born is natural and to die is also natural.

From the blue ocean of death

Life is flowing like nectar.

In life there is death; in death there is life.

So where is fear, where is fear?... - Phire Chalo

Each lifetime affords us an opportunity - through the free will choices we make, and the consequences they return - to purify ourselves further, to become more loving and unselfish. As our purity grows (hopefully) over our lifetime(s) through the ages, our Earth Mother evolves us to more perfect forms. She does this as She moves nearer the sun following each Purification cycle.

I hold that when a person dies, his Soul returns again to earth; Arrayed in some new flesh-disguise, another mother gives him birth. With sturdier limbs and brighter brain, the old soul takes the road again. - John Masefield

Those who believe in mystical/non-dualistic philosophies - professing no reality or importance to the universe and Nature's workings - are perilously misguided. Looking beyond the universe cannot help guide us toward a destiny within it. To the contrary, by rejecting the meaningfulness of creation, mystical philosophies undermine our progress within it by dissuading us from believing choices (other than transcending "the illusion") have any real meaning or lasting value. In a universe where life is purposefully advancing step-by-step toward a crowning goal within it, mystical/non-dualistic philosophies endanger us, by ignoring that our choices can profoundly affect whether we advance within Nature's plan (a plan non-existent for them), or not.

The prophetic period we have entered requires a keen awareness of our ongoing progress within creation, so we can wisely and safely traverse this special period. This is a time to search our minds and hearts carefully, to find what our existence on Earth truly means to us, as we face the choices and chaotic times that lie ahead.

About Fear & Our Relationship To God

Let me take a moment to speak about fear. Fear is a frequently discussed subject. But it is often a one-sided discussion, describing how fear can be used to manipulate people, and all of its negative effects: rendering people helpless, turning off our intuitive “light,” clouding our thinking, undermining the well being of ourselves and the Earth, etc., all of which are true. But is there another side to “fear” that should be mentioned? Are there any times when fear is justified, or useful to us?

When faced with true danger - such as encountering a dangerous wild animal, or standing on the precipice of a high cliff - our bodies produce hormones causing us to protectively react. In those, and related situations, the fear is very real and justified - we are facing situations that place us in harm’s way. In the examples given, the dangers are to our physical life, but what of dangers to our soul? Are there situations that should rightly be feared, because they place our souls in danger?

Great teachers, saints, and prophets have provided warnings that our souls can be put in jeopardy, and even lost. We do not like to believe there can be such a thing as eternal damnation, perdition, loss of souls. But throughout history, we have been warned of such occurrences. We’ve been informed that we have a covenant with our Creator, which, if broken, reaps dire consequences. God has been shown to be both love and law.

Are the people who sent these warnings fearmongers? Or are they our wise brethren, servants of our Creator who have been compassionately educating us, so we will not fall prey to grave errors? I think we can recognize that these warnings are sent to assist us. Yes, they do produce dread - of the consequences of going against God's Law. But, above all else, these warnings are sent to protect us. In other words, it is good to be alarmed at what can cause calamitous results, so we will take every precaution not to make such disastrous mistakes.

Meekness – The Importance of Humility

I would like to add a brief note on those who - often very sincerely and with the best intentions - proclaim that “we are God.” In many of those instances, I understand, and agree with their point that we do not need the mediation of any authority in our relationship with God, and, that in a moment of higher awareness one may glimpse the unity of life. But believing “we are God” is a mistaken idea that can hurt our progress. How so?

As my mentors explained: although we have a divine “spark” within us, we are learning to at-one with that godly, spiritual spark through a purification process that allows body, mind, and spirit to finally act as one. That at-onement allows godliness to shine through us, so “Thy Will, not “my will” manifests through our human life. “Thy Will” refers to God; “my will” refers to our human selves.

If we were God— the perfect expression of pure love and harmony— would we be creating wars? tyrannically ruling over people, treating them as servants rather than equals? killing one another and greedily destroying the Earth for profit and power? These are not the acts of God, but of people, yet learning to express the loving qualities of God (the “spark”) through themselves, by the agency, opportunities, and lessons of life.

The danger of believing we are God is in becoming arrogant and conceited, rather than humble. Humility is a necessary part of our purification process, which is why believing “we are God” endangers our progress.

Pour upon us Thy Spirit of meekness and love. Annihilate selfhood in us. Be Thou all our life. ~ William Blake

As your brother I ask you to pray to the Great Spirit (God), as you know that Spirit, so you may find the truth for yourselves, and make wise choices when those spoken of in this book come to pass. If you do not believe in a Great Spirit, then I hope you will, nonetheless, be alert to the coming choices forewarned in these pages. Regardless of our nationalities, ethnicities, religions, or creeds, we’re all part of our Earth’s life, and, ready, or not, will face the coming trials and temptations together.

As you read through this book, I hope you’ll come to realize that this period is a joyful, not a fearful, time, a wonderful opportunity for all of us to welcome and embrace as we remain faithful to the Great Spirit, and Mother Earth, through this final Purification Time.

Note:

The words “Time” and “Nature” are capitalized in the text, due to their importance, as explained within the book.

(Inserts) and emphases, used throughout the book, are mine.

Chapter 1

Sacred Truths Preserved By Native Peoples

There is a way that nature speaks, that land speaks.
Most of the time we are simply not patient enough, quiet enough, to pay attention to the story.

(Linda Hogan)

Our world holds a continuing fascination with ancient legends, myths, and fables. Those olden tales suggest possibilities largely lost in our technological age, with its emphasis upon the material side of life. Could there be important meaning hidden within the symbol and metaphor of enduring fable and folklore? Original truths known in the far past and passed down from age-to-age, as well as those arising as memories from the unconscious depths of our minds? The deeper truths of some of these tales, felt within us, would explain the fascination and lasting popularity that certain stories hold for us. Two such tales come to mind.

Pinocchio, the wooden-boy who wished upon a star yearning to achieve human perfection, becoming “real,” is a fitting metaphor for our own life journeys; journeys on Earth where we, like Pinocchio, are yet incomplete and inwardly yearning to reach our perfected states.

The woodenness of Pinocchio is an apt symbol of our human bodies, which are yet earthy and impermanent; even as becoming “real” is a good analogy to when we reach our perfected state. Our present imperfect, human forms, compared to what we are evolving toward becoming on Earth, is much like a wooden boy compared to a human one. Like wooden Pinocchio, we are yet in process of becoming the best we can be, when we reach that special place we have been promised will one day come.

“The Wizard of Oz” has captured the hearts of every generation, especially since the 1939 film version was shown. There is deep meaning to be found in Dorothy’s return journey “home,” along with a tin-man, scarecrow, and lion, which are representative of the major kingdoms of life on Earth— mineral-metal, plant, animal, and human. Dorothy ends her adventurous and sometimes frightening journey with words that touch our hearts deeply: “there’s no place like home.”

This magical tale, as allegory, closely recounts our own adventurous and perilous roads in life: how Nature is carrying all of Earth’s life upon a journey, culminating when - as Pinocchio eventually earned, and to which Dorothy finally returned - we reach our homes, when the Earth becomes the paradise elders know as the Fifth World, heaven, or Morning Star.

You may naturally wonder about the foundation for my interpretation of these fables. As you read on, and the ancient knowledge is passed to you, you will have the opportunity to better appreciate our Earth and Nature, and the heavenly home our world is soon to become.

As suggested earlier, one idea of interest is that some myths, legends, and fables can be based upon real life and natural laws lost to modern times. Since many native cultures go far back in time, they provide windows into the past from which lost truths can be rediscovered - storehouses of ancient knowledge more widely known at one time, but which have since been lost, hidden, or amended through the changing attitudes and events of our historical past. This being true, it would be ironic that with the coming of the scientific method, seen to be dispelling superstition and discovering natural law, we have prejudiced our views toward native peoples, blinding ourselves to the wisdom and knowledge some of them have saved to this day.

The so-called “myths” of some native peoples are meant to explain the natural universe, but sometimes they make it unclear because they give it an aura of fantasy. These “myths” are not really myths; they are a way of explaining the operation of Nature to a people before the development and understanding of science. The truth has always been with us; science is a newcomer.

A native mentor once explained to me why his people had purposely confused what they gave out publicly about their sacred knowledge. He said some of their knowledge could cause grave harm, especially when given to a people who had shown the careless use of knowledge they had acquired in the past. He did not like having to hide what they knew, but he understood it had been necessary to protect us.

Without any doubt, the time has come when it is necessary that important truths be restored, so we are prepared for this final Purification and the choices it will bring. Throughout the book, and especially in Chapter 3, from earlier discussions with my mentors, I have done my best to put the meaning of the ancient knowledge in modern, scientific terms, so it can be understood in the thinking and terminology of our times.

The information being restored provides a key to understanding the symbol and metaphor of many different sources: myths and legends, sacred texts, and dreams; as well as helping us comprehend many of the world’s mysteries. Most importantly, this knowledge reestablishes our true relationship to the Earth, and all She means to us.

Our traditional Native American brothers and sisters, and other aboriginal peoples, show us a natural way of living in-balance with life, cooperating with Earth's-circle and Nature, rather than trying to conquer them. Following a balanced, harmonious way of life calls to us during this fateful period of great change, as we are reminded of the holiness of the Earth, our deep connection to Her, and our covenant with the Great Spirit.

We live in a prophetic time, as many who study the subject of the "Last Days" have come to recognize. The interpretation of holy texts, private revelations, North American Indian, Mayan, Q'ero-Incan, and other prophecies all point to our time as being the period of a great transformation, forecast for the end of our present age. Today, many people are awakening to important truths, as history and Nature begin to surrender secrets that have been hidden to most during this era.

At the same time, freedom loving people are helping to publicly expose powerful, concealed groups who have been covertly influencing the world from behind the scenes. As some individuals are helping reveal these unseen factions and their agendas, scientists are making new discoveries shedding light upon our roots, and our place and destiny within the universe. Adding to the enlightenment of the times, are those keepers of ancient knowledge who are revealing what they have long preserved, to help prepare us for coming events.

The veil clouding our deeper understanding is beginning to lift, as religious, scientific, and political truths are brought into the light, helping us to clearly comprehend where we have come from, where we are heading, and those forces of light and darkness that affect our lives. It's time to pull back the curtain all the way, disclosing how history, science, and religion are part of one truth;

how our destinies are tied to the Earth, and to the cycle within Nature which soon carries our world to the paradise that has long been promised.

Are we so foolish in this modern age to believe we've already found most everything important to know? Or can we recognize there is more for us to discover, or rediscover, including knowledge only dimly remembered today, but retained, to a lesser or greater degree, by traditional, indigenous peoples whose lineage goes far back in time. Apollo 14 Astronaut, Edgar Mitchell, put our present scientific understanding in proper perspective, when he said:

Frankly, in our knowledge base as far as how the universe works, we're just barely out of the trees; so, we're pretty naïve. We think we know a lot more than we do.

We have discovered many of Nature's secrets since the so-called Age of Reason began. But it would be foolish to believe we have nothing more to learn, including knowledge connecting religious truths and science. When we recognize that our present understanding of life is incomplete, we wisely search how religion and science fit together, how the natural universe and the Great Spirit are parts of one truth. We are left to understand these profound questions through our reason and higher perception, and by faith in prophetic revelation and holy word. As expressed by Dr. Kenneth Miller, a university biology professor who has testified as an expert witness on evolution:

I think, as many religious people do, that faith and reason are both gifts from God. And if God is real, then faith and reason should compliment each other, rather than being in conflict.

Unfortunately in this age, rather than seeing how science and religion can help illuminate one another, many have come to dismiss anything outside of science, depriving themselves of essential truths passed down through the ages; while others have turned away from science, believing religious truths and science cannot be reconciled.

If we see God as imminent rather than distant, everywhere present in the universe and Nature, we open a window into the sacred mystery of life. As professor Miller recognized: faith and reason are complimentary - studying the universe, together with what's revealed at the heart of religion, provide an opportunity to better understand the holiness of creation, and how we are progressing within it according to its design and purpose.

The knowledge being restored in these pages reminds us that the universe is not separate from God; that the universe's dynamic, natural (scientific) operation, and our existence upon the Earth, are tied together in a sacred way. As long as we remain within Nature's purposeful plan upon the Earth, we are following the Great Spirit's course for us, and all is well. Soon, by the coming choice warned of in this book, our courses can change for the worse. With an enlightened understanding of the Earth and all She means to humankind, the road we walk can be chosen wisely.

Our scientific knowledge has made us somewhat conceited, which can endanger our progress. When we believe we do not need God, or to follow Nature's design, that science and technology alone will provide our every need, we set ourselves up for a great fall. Whether we know it, or not, we are part of the Earth, part of Nature, subject to all of Nature's/God's laws.

What we need to know during this Purification Time is being restored, so we can be ready for the changes and unexpected events to come. Can we overcome the arrogance of our modern age, and benefit from the knowledge being restored to us? Or will we pass it over, falling prey to the deceptions set to ensnare us in the days ahead? The choice will be up to each of us.

One indication of our remaining ignorance is reflected in the unexplained mysteries encountered in the world: phenomena such as unidentified flying objects; worldwide accounts of alien abductions; strange cattle and other animal mutilations; mysterious disappearances of people, ships, and planes; Time anomalies, and a host of others, some going back as far as recorded history.

We can ignore, discount, or debunk these inexplicable events - inexplicable to our present understanding - but they do not go away. They are speaking to us, reminding us to remain humble, and to seek with open minds the greatest mysteries of all. Those are the mysteries connecting us to Nature and life, to God and the Earth, to the magical feeling in our hearts as we watch a flock of birds flying in formation overhead, or listen as a Summer breeze softly rustles the leaves. As written in the book of Job: "Speak to the Earth and it will teach thee."

The knowledge being restored concerns the holy Nature of the Earth and our vital connection to Her, life's purposeful evolution in Nature, and the covenant we have with the Great Spirit to remain on Earth following Nature's plan to its completion. This original knowledge has been retained to present day by the higher religious orders of some indigenous peoples, and others initiated in it around the world. More accurately, this information is being sent by our Earth Mother, a great living being in whom our lives are deeply rooted, who deserves our loving gratitude for all She provides us: food, clothing, shelter, and the spirit of life itself, indeed, everything we have!

This perception of our Earth may seem strange to those raised in the modern Western World. But upon deeper reflection, they may find that recognizing the Earth as a living entity - and thus our mother in the fullest meaning of the word - answers many questions they have been searching to find.

The Earth is now on the cusp of great changes, the final step up the ladder of our evolutionary development within the Great Spirit's plan. This meaningful time is when knowledge of our deep relationship to the Earth, as well as the process progressing life in our solar system are restored, to help prepare us for the events and choices soon to be faced.

Two Fundamental Ideas

There are two guiding ideas my mentors often referred to:

1) To “make yourself small and your heart big.”

Which is to say, we have more to learn, and to become, which is best served by “making ourselves small,” by seeing ourselves progressing within something greater than ourselves, and by living humbly and respectfully toward one another and all life. At the point we realize this, unselfishly seeking to serve rather than be served, we naturally bow in gratitude and willing obedience to God, however we know that Great Spirit. For the greatest among us are not the wealthiest, most powerful, nor most knowledgeable, but those who lovingly give unselfishly of themselves most to our world.

Our “outer,” bodily progress is provided by Nature through evolution upon the Earth, which leads to the second idea.

2) To “keep our eyes down to the Earth, and not up to the sky and other worlds.”

We are being reminded of the holy presence within the Earth, as part of a living universe: God’s life that fills creation. We belong to our Mother Earth in a deep and holy way, as She nurtures and carries us to where our progress is perfected. As the Great Spirit has designed it, we are meant to stay rooted within the Earth until our evolution is completed in the Fifth World-Morning Star. Until that time, we are pledged to remain in the womb of the Earth, like caterpillars within their cocoons. Our hope to reach the Fifth World lies beneath our feet, with the world provided as our life-giving mother and home. So let us not look away from the Earth to any other places for our future hope.

Our Relationship and Duty to the Earth

The following derives from the “spirit laws” preserved from ancient times by a native people, part of their “Law of Life.”

We have many laws within our western legal system, but what is the foundation of our laws? The best legal scholars ponder the question: “What is the first law, the primary law on which all others are based?” This primary law is the “secret code” of native people, and others who have preserved it. This “First Law” is very simple - the Great Spirit’s truths are simple enough for a child to understand.

The words of the First Law make no sense until you think about it. And when you think about it, you can understand that all other laws grow out of it. Before you dismiss this law as too simple, think about it: a law is that which keeps order in the world.

Land and Life are One.
We must respect all Land and Life.

This is the “First Law” from which all laws derive. This statement has several layers of meaning: the Earth is the giver of life: through Her, as “Life,” we receive our own life, as do the rest of Her circle we call the biosphere. As our “Land” (materia) She provides us a home, our bodies, and everything we need to live and grow.

When we say “land and and life are one” we are saying many things. One of these things is that the Earth (as all of creation) is body/form and life/spirit. It is very easy to think highly of spirit, dismissing the body as a shameful thing, because we usually do not try to control it. But when a body is controlled, when it serves the spirit within it, then the body is also made great. Spirit needs a body if spirit is to act within the universe.

Life and death are also one, and aspects of our Earth Mother. Traditional native people do not fear death. They recognize death as part of a natural cycle operating in Nature. These are not empty words! Native people respect death as they respect life. As long as we remain within the womb of the Earth, we abide within God’s design: life, death, and the evolutionary process progressing us toward our heavenly life. With these understandings, we love the Earth above our own lives. We bow to Her, humbly, respectfully, and gratefully for all She provides us!

The heart of these ideas is this: we must honor the Earth as we honor our lives; we must never abuse the Earth - to abuse the Earth is to abuse Life. The Earth and Life (and death) are One! It should be remembered that part of living in a good way (growing from the First Law) is giving-back for what we receive from the Earth in all of our lifeways.

Many indigenous people recognize the presence of God within all of creation. They understand that the Earth embodies that same life and power. The term “Mother Earth” aptly describes our relationship to Her: She has bore and nurtured us from our earliest beginnings, carrying us within Her life-giving womb, our true Rock of Ages. We are rooted within Her great life, which no other world can say of us— She is our Mother; we belong to Her.

I'hak itamuy it hikwsit maqaaqa pam ita muy him u'yta.

The one who gives us the spirit of life, is the one who owns us:
this is our Earth Mother.

Before we can progress it is necessary we accept that we belong to our creator. When we recognize this sacred truth, we naturally honor the Earth, holding fast to Her so nothing can separate us, until She Herself releases us after our completion in the Fifth World.

To many Native American, and other indigenous people, it is known that the Earth's Sacred Heart is the dwelling place of God (Appendix 2), Her inner, fatherly life to which we belong.

Hak yaw mokqw pay yaw hakiy hikwsi'at sa ahoy pangsoqningwu.

When one dies, one's soul returns to the Heart-of-the-Earth.

After we die, rather than floating off aimlessly somewhere into space (as some seem to believe), native priests advise that our souls remain within the great Life of the Earth Heart - sometimes called Her Spirit Home or Underworld - from where we are later reborn to new lifetimes, as we progress together toward the Morning Star. Thus, we can go to our graves with the knowledge that the Earth will renew us, providing us new lifetimes that reflect how we have lived in the past.

As he lay dying, past age 100, one of my mentors faithfully proclaimed “ita tamta”: “Earth Mother, I give back the life I received from you, in faith you will return it to me in the next life.”

Elders tell us that how we have lived in this life is judged within the Soul-Mind of the Earth following death, which determines our next life within our overall journey to the heavenly Fifth World. With this understanding, we naturally strive to live the best lives we can, trusting in the perfected life our Earth Mother is carrying us toward.

opi wiimit sa enang sutsep hintsakma.

Native Americans live their religious beliefs in their every action.

To the pure Native American (as meant for each of us) the daily way of life and religion are inseparable.

Naat yaw pas sinom tuuwaqalpeq moqhaqami qa unangwtalawvayaqw pep pu’ way puma Pooqangwhoyat pumuy
Paaloolooqangwtuy maatapani.

We must accomplish good moral behavior before the end of this world is upon us. If we do not accomplish this, we will be judged in the Heart of our Mother, by Her Caretaker, and not be allowed to go on to the Fifth World. We will have to continue in the (new) troubled Fourth World until we learn good morals and live accordingly.

Elders warn that if we do not learn to live in an unselfish, and loving way by the end of this Fourth World (remaining immovable from the Earth) we will be unable to progress to the Fifth World with the Earth at the end of this Purification. We will have to continue later in the new Fourth World, and all of its worldly struggles. This helps motivate us to be the very best people we can, always clinging tightly to our Mother Earth.

To recount the above: God is not distant, but is everywhere in creation, including our own living Earth. Within the Earth is the Spirit-Life, Soul, Mind, and Power of God. As such, our Earth has bore and nurtured us as we have evolved from our earliest stages of life to where we are now as Homo sapiens, nearly completed. We belong to the Earth in a most holy way— She is the womb of God within whom we have been carried forward age-to-age, and life-by-life, toward our celestial home in the Fifth World. With this understanding, we live in gratitude and love toward the Earth, the source of all we possess, giving-back to our world in our daily living, as we hold fast to Her on our journey together to highest life.

Earth Mother & Her Sacred Heart

As described in the preceding discussion, the central focus of our existence is the womb within which we “live and breathe and have our being”: the Earth and Her sacred Heart. In the words of religious scholar Maarten Vermaseren:

The Earth Mother is the mysterious power that awakes everything to life. All comes from the Earth and all ends in the Earth. The Earth produces all things and then enfolds them again. The Earth Mother is the beginning and End of all life.

After centuries of revising canonical books, nearly every trace of Earth Mother and her Immaculate Heart have been removed from Christian literature. But to the scholarly and discerning eye the Divine Earth and her Immaculate Core/Heart are very present. Gnostic scriptures cast off the revised cannon and reverted to the older texts. Accordingly, Eve-Earth Mother not only created Adam-Core Son, but Adam was the very soul within his mother. Some Gnostic texts reverse this order and say that Eve-The Virgin is the soul within Adam-the Father. Either way they understood the concept of a God within a God, that is, the Heart of the Earth within the Mother.

The distinction between Earth Mother and her Sacred Heart is confusing only because “Earth” and “Heart” are derivations of the same word. The Earth takes her name from Her Sacred Heart, the Earth-Core (move the first letter of “Heart” to the end). Among the many names of the Earth-Core is Aeon, Father of Time. Over Time (over the Aeons) the Earth and her Heart-Core have been worshipped as one God, or as two separate (and yet inseparable) Gods. When the Father Sun is included they are worshipped as a Trinity.

As Kor/Aeon (and a multitude of different names) the Earth Core is “God the Son”; as Ceres and Kore (and again, a multitude of different names) the Earth Core is “The Holy Virgin” and “The Immaculate Heart” of the Earth Mother. Some early belief systems endow the Earth Heart with the masculine gender and revere Him as Father, some refer to the Earth Heart as her Daughter, others as her Son. The Earth Heart is revered as both a holy infant and as Aeon, "The Ancient of Days." In every case the Core/Heart is worshipped as God within God.

There is one "Hidden One" and He goes by many names. We invoke Him by his Egyptian name when we pray. We do this because Moses, when he taught us how to worship in the desert, addressed God by the name he knew - Amon, the Hidden One, hidden in the womb of our Mother Earth. With a little research the most devout Christian and Jew will discover that the name they invoke to this day at the end of their prayers is that of Amen-Amon, the Hidden God of the Egyptians, the Hidden God of the Christians, the Sacred Core-Heart of our Mother Earth.

The center of the Earth is the cave wherein dwells (the masculine) God, who is the Core-Heart of our Mother Earth (feminine). With this understanding, when we start a prayer we can do so with knowledge that whether we say God, Jehovah, Shiva, Allah, or Amen our prayers are received by our Father who is the Heart of our Earth Mother.

Modern science still refers to the Earth Heart by the old name, Core. Ab was the Egyptian word for Earth Heart and the same word, Ab, meant Earth Soul. The Ab was also the human soul that would be weighed in the balances of Maat after death in the Earth Mother's underground Judgement Hall. Maat - the Earth Mother as the personification of Truth and Justice - takes her name from Ma, the mother syllable of Indo-European languages, worshipped in itself as the fundamental name of the Earth Mother.

The "All-Seeing-Eye" in the Earth Belly was sometimes represented by a dot (fetus) inside a pregnant belly. The same hieroglyph was used for the name of Amon/Amen, the Hidden God who dwelt in the Earth Womb/Heart. Ma-ma means both mother's breasts and mother in almost all languages. The Egyptian Book of the Dead addresses prayers to "The Heart of my Mother," "The Heart of Transformations," "The Source of Rebirth."

Mohammed and his followers were worshippers of Demeter and her Heart/Daughter Kore. The Moslem scriptures he handed down (Kor an) bear testament to his worship of Earth Mother and her Sacred Heart to this day. Variations of Kore include Kor, Kar, Ker, Car, Qar, Q're, Cara, Kher, Cere, Ceres, Core, Cora, Kora, Kaur, Kauri, all names for the Sacred Heart/Soul of Earth Mother.

"Karma" is a combination-word of Kar (Kore) with ma (mother). Karma is the maternal heart-power with which Kauri-Ma rules over human destiny. The word "destiny" is derived from the words "de" (earth) and "stiny" (stone). The Earth's "Law of Karma" is that individual evolution must be worked out by a series of reincarnations (re-in-CAR-nations) through the turning of the great wheel of Time, the Karmic Wheel.

The French word for heart is "Coeur," in Latin it is "cor," and in Spanish it is "corazon." All these words are derived from "Core," the Sacred Earth Heart, the Sacra Cardiac of Earth Mother. Karnak in Egypt, and Carnac in Brittany were sites of gigantic temples over 5,000 years ago. These temples were dedicated to Kar or Kore the Sacred Earth Heart. France had similar temples in Kerlescan, Kercado, and Kermario.

The word "Kermario" (Ker mari o) combined the virgin Kore with her Divine Mother Mari. Mari is the basic Chaldean name of the Earth. The Chaldeans also called her Marratue; the Jews called her Marah, the Persians Mariham. Other ancient Earth names with the same root are Marian, Miriam, Mariamne, Myrrhine, Myrtea, Myrrha, Maria, and Marina.

Every day English is resonant with words derived from the Sacred Earth Heart/Core/Mind/Womb. When we use such words as carol (Christmas carol), care, car, cart, carry, card, coral, cord (umbilical cord) and cardinal, we unconsciously hymn the Earth-Heart. Even the humble carpet is so-named for being underfoot as is the Core.

The Earth Mother and her Sacred Heart are ever present on our tongues. She is unconsciously summoned in the middle of words such as “sacred”; after death she lingers on in such as “corpse” and “carcass,” when we “carry” her name into the grave (grove) where we await “growth.” The body of Christ is “Corpus Christi,” with “Chri” being a derivative of “Core,” as is “Krs” in “Krsna.” As mentioned earlier, the word “earth” is itself a derivative of “heart.” (see Appendix 2)

As you read further, I hope you will come to better appreciate our Earth Mother, recognizing that everything we have comes from Her, and better understand why we should hold fast to the Earth through all the trials of this final Purification.

Creation and Evolution – One Process

He that troubleth his own house shall inherit the wind.

(Proverbs 11:29)

In the Summer of 1925 a trial took place in Tennessee. A High School biology teacher named John Scopes was prosecuted for teaching the theory of evolution in his classes. His prosecution was assisted by the politician and religious leader, William Jennings Bryan; his defence was led by the noted attorney, Clarence Darrow.

This real-life story was made into a play, and later a film entitled, Inherit The Wind.

The final scene of the film has attorney Darrow weighing the bible in one hand, and Darwin's Origin of Species (the basis of the theory of evolution) in the other. After weighing each book separately, he finally places both books together. This symbolic act of joining religious knowledge of creation with the knowledge of evolution, holds a great truth: God is present in Nature; or expressed another way, evolution operates according to God's design and purpose.

Within creation, Nature has long been evolving us toward a final destiny within the womb of our mother planet. Darwin, and science to date, have not uncovered the full picture of the evolutionary process as it occurs within solar systems (Chapter 3), but the general principles are correct. We are part of the universe, being carried by the Earth within Nature's-God's purposeful, evolutionary scheme toward the Morning Star. Elders describe how our present Homo sapien form is the latest, most advanced form of life in God's kiln, culminating with our final evolutionary step at the end of this purification.

It has always been right to live in-balance with the Earth as part of one family, to love one another and unselfishly give-back for all we receive. This is the way we were taught to live at the beginning of this Fourth World, which many native and non-native people continue to follow from their hearts. But now we must face an old season, one which we have not seen in thousands of years, which our Earth has gone through six times before.

This cyclical season, or Purification Time, is a period where life further evolves, as each planet advances in our solar system. This cycle is the source of past cataclysms dimly remembered in our present age. It does not bring about the end of our world, but its renewal at the next “higher” position of our sun system. Our Earth Mother is next in line to reach the highest place of our system, where life is perfected in an imperishable form. This will be explained in more detail as we continue.

As discussed in the Introduction, it’s important to realize the Great Spirit has designed the universe with purpose informing its movements and cycles. We are part of the universe, part of Nature’s evolutionary cycles. According to this universal plan, we are advancing in awareness and body— an evolved brain in an evolved body - finally receiving our perfected forms in the Fifth World. Accordingly, it is best for us not to devalue or reject the universe, looking to mystically transcend it. But rather to realize that we are part of creation, and to trust where Nature is carrying us according to the great designer of it all.

For we know that the whole creation groans and labors with birth pangs together until now. Not only that, but we also who have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, eagerly waiting for the adoption, the redemption of our body. (Romans 8:22-23)

A mentor once pointed out to me (which came somewhat as a surprise at the time) that our Earth Mother did not need us, we needed our Earth Mother. In other words: we belong to the Earth; She does not belong to us. This reminds us to shed any conceit concerning our true relationship to the Earth, living with gratitude for all we receive from Her.

As badly as we have polluted the Earth and made Her life to suffer, believing the Earth was here for us to subdue, the Earth will soon be purified, with all of Her life raised to new heights. Those who appreciate the Earth will always work on Her behalf. But our Earth Mother follows Nature along with the rest of creation, and will be purified and ascend to the Fifth World with, or without, us.

How severe the Earth's birth pangs will be, and thus how easily our Mother will make Her transition, does depend upon how we act toward the Earth and one another in the days ahead. We can help make our Mother's laboring easier, thereby lessening our own hardships, by living together lovingly and harmoniously. Every heartfelt action and prayer counts toward the ease and successful transition of the Earth, and are especially needed now.

It is always right for us to unselfishly serve our world as best as we can. But we must also make proper choices when Nature brings them to us, remaining within Nature's plan— our covenants. Otherwise, no matter how good our intentions, we will receive the consequences of breaking the laws of the universe as the Great Spirit has made them.

By the end of this Purification Time, we each will have made a choice setting us upon one of two roads: progressing to Paradise with our world; or, if our choices were made badly (abandoning the Earth), forever losing our Earth Mother and treading a darkened path. We are being given warnings and signs for us to see. But only we can recognize and act upon them, so that we remain upon the Earth when She ascends to become the new Morning Star.

To understand and be able to accept the ideas put forth in these pages, it will be helpful to examine them with fresh minds. As discussed earlier, rather than seeing evolution and creation as opposing concepts, it is best to view them as parts of a single process, operating together within the design of the Great Spirit. Then we can see the Earth in a new light, where the entire vista of humankind's past, from earliest beginnings to our present Homo sapien form, purposefully unfolds toward a future destiny, governed by Nature and hoped for each of us when we reach our crowning place together. This will be explained more fully in the following chapters.

Chapter 2

An Overview

If you failed to read “The Heart of the Book” in the Introduction, I recommend doing so now. It offers a brief summary of the core ideas of the book, that should help your understanding as you read the more detailed explanations that follow. The basic ideas being shared with you are simple, and all you really need to remember.

This chapter is an overview in two parts - “Brief” and “Broader” - of the most meaningful concepts for us to understand. I have tried to build upon these fundamental ideas, repeating while expanding them in later chapters. I hope you will not find the repetition too tedious, understanding that it is done to emphasize certain key concepts that will be new to most people, and to help to make the ideas as clear and understandable as possible.

As I progressed in my learning, I was shown that the truths being restored can be found within the sacred texts of the world. Consequently, I have drawn upon a sampling of passages from within the Old Testament, New Testament, Apocrypha, Koran, and Popul Vuh (Mayan), where they speak to the material under discussion throughout the book. As I hope you can see, the knowledge of the Earth and Purification Time applies to every one of us, regardless of our national, ethnic, or religious affiliations.

A Brief Summary

In our materialistic, technological world, many people have become disconnected from the Earth, and its sacred meaning and power in their lives. This has led to people living out-of-balance, with the sacred and spiritual being devalued and people dehumanized. As psychiatrist Carl Jung wrote in Man and His Symbols:

As scientific understanding has grown, so our world has become dehumanized. Man feels himself isolated in the cosmos, because he is no longer involved in Nature and has lost his emotional “unconscious identity” with natural phenomena....No voices now speak to man from stones, plants, and animals, nor does he speak to them believing they can hear. His contact with Nature has gone, and with it has gone the profound emotional energy that this symbolic connection supplied.

In her book, Ceremony, author Leslie Marmon Silko of the Laguna Pueblo describes our “disconnection” from the Earth and Nature, and its effects upon us:

Then they grow away from the earth
then they grow away from the sun
Then they grow away from the plants and animals.
They see no life
When they look
They see only objects.
The world is a dead thing for them
The trees and rivers are not alive
The mountains and stones are not alive.
The deer and bear are objects
They see no life.

They fear
They fear the world
They destroy what they fear.
They fear themselves. (p. 135)

The Hopi describe this dissociation from the Earth, Nature, and the sacred as koyaanisqatsi (life out-of-balance), where we have developed our intellects (“heads”) to the detriment of our moral/spiritual “hearts.” Thus, we have lost our ways, becoming divided about what has true meaning and value in life, and how best to live.

Those who believe in a Great Spirit (God), and a Fifth World or heaven in their various faiths, sometimes argue there are different ways we can live to reach this paradise God holds for us. But this is not the way originally taught, and still retained by some today. The 1 “Law of Life,” preserved by some peoples, instructs that there is only ONE way that the universe is made—the immutable laws of the cosmos. God is often described as “love,” but, in creation, God is also shown to be “law,” which we are covenanted to follow.

We cannot change the natural order of creation according to how we choose to believe. There is only one road that takes us to our promised place, and that road has always been with our Mother Earth, and the calendar Time God has provided us with Her. Nature operates as it has been made, its purposeful cycles all arriving in their appointed times. Whether we know it, or not, we are all being carried within its purposeful scheme.

The period our world has reentered will bring the most important choices we will be asked to make since the beginning of our present World-Age. It is the return of a natural cycle occurring within ours and other solar systems, which advances the life of each world. For our Earth it will be the final step.

As puzzling as this may sound now, in the coming days we will reach a crossroad determining our futures. We will all be asked to choose between two paths. These two roads are those spoken of in the scriptures of the world, and shown in an ancient petroglyph discussed later in the chapter. By our choices we will have the opportunity to progress with our Earth to Her highest place, go backwards, or lose the great gift awaiting us in the Fifth World. Once again there will be those who will be immovable from the Earth who will progress, and those who will make horrible choices.

The serious consequences of our coming choices have brought us higher assistance, so we can understand where we have come from, where we are going, and our true relationship to the Earth and God. In the coming times, if we choose to break our covenants, abandoning the Earth, we will lose the mother world who has bore and nurtured us through the past ages. Worst of all, we can lose the fruition of everything we have been striving toward upon the Earth: our perfected life, and the heavenly world which our Earth will soon become.

As incredible as this may sound to you now, the choice, soon to be faced will tempt us to abandon the Earth into another Time-structure, one that is outside the Great Spirit's design for life. This warning is sent by our greater Parents, much as we warn our own children of danger— not to raise fear, but to protect us from harm and allow us to become all that we can be. This choice will be further explained later in this chapter, and in more detail in Chapter 4.

According to a process unfolding in Nature, known to some as “The Sacred Path or Pattern of Migration,” our Earth has been progressively evolving life, stage-by-stage, from our Solar System's most outlying orbit to where we are now, one step from the loftiest place of our system - the Morning Star-Fifth World. Our Earth has long been carrying us as we have evolved from our earliest stages of life, to our present Homo sapien forms. But this is not our final form, which is received at the end of the Earth's journey through our solar system toward the sun.

Our covenant with our Creator requires that we remain within the womb of the Earth until She reaches the throne of our system, and we receive our crowning life. The Earth is now readying to take this final step. Those who remain immovable from Her during this last Purification will receive the completion of their long evolutionary development, what Swiss psychiatrist Carl Jung called Homo maximus (greatest man), and the Q'ero people call Homo luminous (man of light). The Q'ero, the last original descendents of the Incan Children of the sun, have come out of the mountains and begun speaking-out about the new human that will emerge at the end of this Purification Time, the period they call Pachacuti.

Our Earth Mother is now in labor. The increasingly severe weather and geological disturbances are more than what most scientists believe; they are birth pangs originating from deep within the heart of the Earth. The Earth is laboring to birth what some native peoples have referred to as Her Egg (Her Core), which will emerge from the Earth's birth canal in an Antarctic sea.

When the Earth's Core-Heart is ejected, along with the Cores of the other worlds of our system, each planet will move up an orbit nearer the sun, as they have done in previous cycles. With every move the life upon each world is further evolved, due to the excitation existing in our system during these times. The newly evolved species are adapted to live under their new conditions closer to the sun.

Our Earth is next in line to ascend to the highest position of our sun system, where those who remain with Her will receive their completed, incorruptible forms. Our World will then become a paradise beyond what we can presently imagine. A world of great beauty where all life lives together in peace without suffering or struggle, the completion of a journey we have been upon for many ages with the Earth. In our perfected, eternal bodies, our Mother will release greater knowledge and power to us, with which to serve God as guardians of the life evolving upon the younger worlds of ours, and other systems.

Every good thought and action in life bears its fruit in time. A good person's grave is the doorway to eternal life in the Fifth World, as he/she is reborn, ever striving toward our home in the orbit and density of the Morning Star. With this knowledge in our thoughts, in joyful anticipation, we can be strengthened to endure the tribulations of our Earth's labor pains and worldly turmoil in the days ahead. This is not a time for us to be fearful, even of death, while we hold fast to our world, but to look forward to the fulfillment of God's purpose for us, now occurring upon the Earth.

And God will wipe away every tear from their eyes; there shall be no more death, nor sorrow, nor crying. There shall be no more pain, for the former things have passed away.
(Revelation, 21:4)

...For unto you is paradise opened, the tree of life is planted, the time to come is prepared, plenteousness is made ready, a city is builded, and rest is allowed, yea, perfect goodness and wisdom Sorrows are passed, and in the end is shewed the treasure of immortality... (Apocrypha, 2Esdr.8:52, 54)

Soon, Time will change upon our world, as an incomplete knowledge of Time will be acclaimed and made available for us to use. This “Time as Direction” has long been known among the higher religious orders of indigenous peoples in their honoring of the directions, but is NOT meant for us to use while we are unfinished in our development, as we are now. Going into this new Time structure, rather than remaining within the calendar Time on Earth, removes us bodily from our World, and from the natural processes of life, death, and evolution we are pledged to follow until perfected in the Fifth World.

Our Mother Earth returns knowledge to us, and sends us warnings, so we will not be deceived when tempted to abandon Her into the “new” Time-frame. If a human mother loves her child, how much more must the Mother of all the Earth’s life love Her children? Our Earth Mother’s message is a call to all of Her children. She asks us to be strong hearted and faithful to Her throughout the coming trials, so we can complete our progress with Her.

The message I am passing on is not meant to answer every detail, but to help restore the truths of the Earth, and to prepare us for the events and choices that will soon arise unexpectedly. The knowledge contained in this book is being returned with great love and compassion, which only the Mother of all the Earth’s life can know. A Mother who wishes to prepare and protect Her beloved children, so She will not lose them. As written in the Apocrypha:

For ask the Earth, and she shall tell thee, that it is she which ought to mourn for the fall of so many that grow upon her. For out of her came all at the first, and out of her shall all others come, and, behold, they walk almost all into destruction, and a multitude of them is utterly rooted out. Who then should make more mourning than she who hath lost so great a multitude? The Mother that hath lost one son? But if (the mother who hath lost one son) sayest unto me, 'My lamentation is not like the Earth's, because I have lost the fruit of my womb, which I brought forth with pains, and bare with sorrows; But the Earth not so!' Then I say unto thee, Like as thou hast brought forth with labor; even so the Earth hath also given her fruit, namely, man, ever since the beginning, unto Him that made her.

(2 Esdras 10:9-14)

Let us live our lives in unselfish and loving ways, putting aside all fear of death. For death has no sting, and the grave holds a reward for the righteous. This Purification let us anticipate our Earth Mother's birth with joy in our hearts, rather than fear and abandonment.

A Broader View

Each one of us has wondered, "Why am I here? What is the purpose of my life?" The answer is that we are waiting for our evolution to be completed in the Fifth World. And though it has seemed endless, and been difficult, it has been very worthwhile. Now we must harvest all our faith in Nature and God, and greet the approaching final stage of evolution with courage and rejoicing.

We can only evolve in unison with everything in Nature. If we miss this chance to complete our “pattern of evolution,” all else in Nature will go forward, and we will be left behind. We have coexisted with Nature since the beginning of Time, and can do nothing to hold back Nature. So let us accept the weather changes and geo disturbances signalling the Time of Purification.

We all know this world is changing: weather is changing and people are changing. Some people have become better than they were, and other people have given up hope and have become worse. Many people have wondered: “what is happening to the weather,” and “what is happening to the young people.” Native people know why the weather has become unpredictable and many young people are lost, to natives this is not unexpected. These happenings are the prophesied signs of the end of our world era, and the beginning of the next. As native elders have alerted us:

When you can see plants bloom out of season, know that the end (of this present World-Age) is near and you must get your house in order. When young people shave their heads and will not follow the advice of their parents, when parents are afraid of their own children, know that the end is near and you must “prepare for this life to end” (for Purification, and our perfected life to come in the Fifth World).

The Southwestern Pueblo sand painting of the sunflower (Figures 1 and 2) describes the process of our beginnings, and the progressive evolutionary unfoldment within our solar system. In the Old Testament, this process is described as occurring in six-days, symbolic of the six eras during which Earth occupied the six outer orbits. The seventh day of rest refers to the period of equilibrium during Earth's present orbit.

The description of creation in the Bible is meant to convey the different stages, from a formless planet to one which supports "every herb bearing seed, every tree, every beast of Earth, every fowl of the air, everything which creepeth upon Earth, and man." As mentioned, we are presently in the period of equilibrium, God's Day of Rest. God will again commence "work" (evolution) at the end of our present Purification Time, when the excitation in our system will bring about the last step in our journey to highest life. This evolutionary advancement at the end of Purification Times is the "punctuation" which follows our earlier equilibrium, how evolution occurs within the solar system as described in Chapter 3.

The knowledge being restored prescribes a profound meaning and purpose within the dynamics of creation. As part of a living universe, life is shown to be progressing in an evolutionary process ("punctuating" Darwin's scheme), from its earliest stages to a perfected form in a world of great beauty, peace, and harmony closer to the sun. This heavenly place of our system is known by many names to native and non-native peoples.

The knowledge being reinstated is basically simple, giving primary importance to our existence and purpose within the universe, rather than to transcending it. It describes a process going on within ours and other solar systems, by which life is brought to perfection: mind spiritualized, love individualized in an incorruptible body. By its nature, the information being restored ties together scientific and religious concepts; how the Earth and its life are meant to progress together within the purposeful operation of God's living universe.

Our understanding of Time is an important part of the knowledge being reinstated, to help us with the coming “End Time.” “End Time” - as opposed to “Last Days,” which refers to Purification Time –denotes the period when Time, as we have known it, will change or “end,” suddenly being joined with another option that we expect to be proclaimed as a new discovery, but actually has been known since ancient times. This “new” “Time-as-direction” can be described as a “timeless structure,” hence, an “end of time,” or “end time.” We will then have a choice between the calendar Time given us on Earth, or the “new” Time reality that will be deceptively offered to us, and later forced upon us.

Going into this “new” Time-frame will break our covenant with God, removing us from our Earth Mother and our hoped for destiny with Her in the Fifth World. End Time is now very near. We are being alerted to the coming choice so we can prepare for it, recognizing the truth from the deceptions foisted upon us by those who arrogantly place themselves above God. This subject is explained more fully in Chapter 4.

Many people intuitively sense that we are living in an important time. Some people have received dreams or visions portending major events lying on the near horizon. It is becoming very certain that something is causing a change of climate, an escalation of severe weather, and earthquake and volcanic activity which many scientists attribute to “global warming” due to greenhouse gases. However, this view of “global warming” cannot explain the increasing number and severity of all these anomalies.

Something yet undisclosed is happening deep within the Earth. Our Earth is literally in labor to birth Her Core-Egg through Her birth-canal, emerging in the Antarctic, in the Weddell Sea. This “hidden” Core is sometimes referred to as “The Hidden Egg,” “Mystery Egg,” or “Amen” the “hidden one” that is born at the end of Purification Times. A prominent period to watch during our Earth’s birth pains is late August through most of September, while in the constellation Virgo.

For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; and there will be famines, plagues, and earthquakes in various places. But all these things are the beginning of birth pains (or “birth pangs”). (Mt. 24: 7-8, Mk. 13:8; WEB)

Following the birth of Her Core-Egg, the Earth will move out of Her present orbit (as will the other worlds of our system), and be instated in the loftiest place of our system: the orbit of the Morning Star. Those who hold fast to the Earth, striving to be the best they can be, will inherit the paradise our Earth will then become.

The Root & Offspring of The Earth

To reach our completions in heaven we must remain within the womb of the Earth, like a caterpillar must remain within its cocoon until it emerges in its completed form as a butterfly. Nature has rooted us within our living Earth, body and soul, as we have been progressively evolved, wrought from our earliest stages of life toward our completed, eternal forms in the Fifth World— we are the root and offspring of the Earth.

My substance was not hid from thee when I was made in secret, and curiously wrought in the lowest parts of the earth. (Psalm 139:15)

Many of those who read these pages are God loving people who follow their own religions as best as they can, trusting in the faiths they follow. What is being returned to us, if I am explaining it well, should help illuminate truths found within all religions. As will be discussed in more detail in Chapter 3, life is progressed upon each world to a perfected form in the orbit now held by the planet we call Venus. When we reach this exalted place, we have become pure, loving souls serving as guardians of the Creator's plan unfolding upon the "younger" worlds of ours, and other systems.

As we are the root and offspring of our own Earth, so others are the root and offspring of their mother worlds - such as the previous Fifth World, David, the Morning Star preceding Venus (Fig. 4). As written at the end of the Book of Revelations:

I, Jesus, have sent my angel to testify to you these things in the churches. I am the Root and the Offspring of David, the bright and morning star." (22:16, Peshitta).

Jewish People wear a six-pointed symbol called the "Star of David," most without realizing the deeper meaning that this symbol holds.

Out of the clay of Earth God has molded us, so we should not look upward to other stars, worlds, or Time structures for our salvations. Rather, we should rightly look with wonder and love upon our world. This Earth is the great Rock from which we were hewn. This Earth is the Rock upon which all priests prostrate face-downwards when they are ordained. This Earth is the Rock which Pope John Paul II kissed when his feet touched land. And this Earth will become the new Morning Star, the new heaven, home to the angels. With opened eyes we can see that our hope does not lie beyond our world, but with the Earth, which God has provided as our life-giving mother and home.

Our Living Universe: Seen and Unseen

One of the greatest truths, passed to us by indigenous peoples, is the knowledge that our Earth is a great living being. Our modern world tends to see the Earth as dead, inert matter; while native peoples perceive a life and consciousness in the Earth, and beyond, that most of the world has forgotten. One example of this is when the Lakota people (Oglala Sioux) proclaim and invoke our connection to the living universe at the beginning and end of their ceremonies with the words “mitakuye oyasin,” all my relatives/relations.

The universe is alive. It is a living universe whose life and awareness ensouls every star and world. Within our universe, life is nested together from largest to smallest, life within life—the universe is alive, so our Galaxies are alive, so our solar systems are alive, and so our Earth is also a living, conscious entity from whom we receive our own life. Life cannot be supported by something that is dead; if our Earth was dead, we would not have life. Every planet is a unique, life supporting living entity. The life and power of the Almighty Spirit is not distant from us, but is everywhere within creation at-once, including beneath our feet in Gaia/Ina Maka/Pachamama/Tuuwaqatsi/Etenoha/Eingana, etc. — our Mother Earth. If we desert our world, severing our roots in the Earth, we abandon Nature’s plan, removing ourselves from our life-giving source and course, breaking our covenants with the Great Spirit we call God.

Life exists upon the other planets of our system, but we cannot see it because each world is a unique ecosphere existing within its own density spectrum. Our sense perceptions are bound within a limited range of our system's spectra, so we only perceive the other worlds where their spectra overlap into our own. There is much more going on upon the other worlds of our system than we can be aware of within the limited range of our present perception. To understand our universe, and our place within it, we have to come to a whole new understanding of life, death, reality, and visibility. That which lies outside of our spectrum of sound, light, and density, and which we cannot hear, see, or touch is also created by God (Chapter 3).

For by Him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in Earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by Him, and for Him. (Col. 1:16)

Nature's Progressive Plan

My children, my children, it is I who wear the morning star on my head.

(Arapaho Ghost Dance song)

Today, many people believe that those who suggest there is one universal "Law of Life" for all people are narrow minded. The popular notion is that everything is relative, so it does not matter what road we take, what choices we make, for they all lead to the same end. But there is only one way our universe is made, one universal road in Nature for life to follow if we are to reach our destinies in the paradise planned for us.

That one road lies with the Earth. The heavenly place our world will soon become will be the culmination of our long evolutionary development, where we will receive our completed lifeforms in a real, not mythical place: the orbit of the Morning-Evening-Day Star we presently call Venus.

As noted in the Introduction, many in the present age focus upon our internal-spiritual progress. But this is only one part of our journey, the other, evolutionary part, being completed by Nature. We can ignore Nature's part for a time, but we cannot avoid it. Soon, we will all face choices Nature will return to our world, advancing those who faithfully endure with the Earth. Let me explain further.

From my contacts with people locally, and on the Internet, I see a growing tendency for people to believe in non-dualistic, mystical philosophies that see the entire universe as an illusion; and, therefore, that the workings of Nature, and our progress on Earth, have no real meaning or lasting value. All that matters, according to their view, is for us to enlighten our consciousness and transcend the illusion. This idea goes against the knowledge preserved by many indigenous peoples, religions, and philosophies that give profound meaning to the universe and our growth within it.

Favoring importance to our progress on Earth does not preclude an underlying unity to creation, and the connectedness of life. Only that if we are progressing within creation, according to an inherent plan (Nature), then to fulfill the destiny of that plan we must abide within its design—our covenant. According to the contract with our Creator, our primary pledge is to remain upon the Earth, utilizing the calendar Time She provides us. This allows us to live, die, and evolve forward from Purification-to-Purification, age-to-age, ever progressing toward our perfected home in the place of the Fifth World.

There is nothing mystical in Nature. All life within the universe is affected by the operation of Nature, no matter what our personal beliefs may be. If we can accept Nature's purposeful progression of life, then our journeys on Earth become profoundly meaningful. That importance is lost with mystical/non-dualistic philosophies, where good and evil, gains and losses, sin, suffering, souls, Nature, and the universe itself are seen as mere illusions.

Through the ages we have been warned of good and evil, sin, and the consequences of breaking our covenants with God. Unlike mystical philosophies that give little importance to our evolutionary development, we are being reminded of how far we have come on Earth, which is unfinished, but about to climax following this Purification. The Mayan creation story (Popul Vuh) describes the appearance of creation and Earth for human development:

Here is the story of the beginning...

Only Heart-of-Sky, alone...

...But there is no one to speak his name.

There is no one to praise his glory.

There is no one to nurture his greatness.

And so Heart-of-Sky thinks,

"Who is there to speak my name?

Who is there to praise me?

How shall I make it dawn?"

Heart-of-Sky only says the word,

"Earth,"

and the earth rises...

Here is the new creation made of mud and earth... (edited Dennis Tedlock translation)

Our internal progress— as opposed to our evolutionary progress - relates to a “spark” of divine intelligence that lies within us. Our lives provide opportunities for us to “at-one with that divine “spark,” purifying ourselves so it can illumine our minds with its “light”— Thy Will, not my will. To believe we are God, rather than to at-one so that the Great Spirit can “shine through us,” is in great part an error of conceit, a problem of our age impeding our inner progress, which depends upon humility. The ability to express the qualities of our divine “spark” is a function of our mental-emotional-physical purity.

When we purify our minds and emotions so they naturally hold loving thoughts and feelings, and quiet our minds calming our “rivers of thought,” then our inner “spark” can shine its “light” more perfectly through us. Finally, our purity is such that we at-one (spirit, mind and body as one), so we spontaneously think and act in loving, unselfish ways.

As Homo sapiens, learning to at-one with our godly “sparks,” we are still unfinished in our evolutionary development. A development completed by Nature when we receive our perfected bodies in the Fifth World— Jung’s Homo maximus, the Q’ero’s Homo luminous.

The message I am given to return to you focuses more on the “Nature-evolutionary” side of our development, than our internal progress. This does not diminish the value of our internal, spiritual development in any way. But much is already known about our spiritual development, which we are also learning in our daily lives; while our understanding of our Earth Mother, and our evolutionary migrations in Nature are largely unknown in this age, and are especially needed during this Purification.

As discussed, our internal progress occurs within a universal process unfolding within creation: Nature progressively provides newer, more evolved bodies, following its plan and schedule within the solar system; while our inner progress varies with each person, depending upon how quickly we learn to be loving and unselfish, or not. A person must work to improve him/herself, and thereby be worthy of heaven-Fifth World. Elders explain we can accomplish this quickly, or slowly, in one life, a thousand, or never.

Morning Star-heaven is for those who have accomplished a high degree of purification, notwithstanding the weakness of our human bodies. Hence, “many are called, but few are chosen” (Ma 22:14). The few who are chosen are those people who have worked hard to improve themselves. Their perfection is completed by Nature’s personal involvement in their progress, in the form of evolution. They are worthy of evolution and heaven because they did the best they could to improve themselves.

Between Purification Times, those who have reached a high degree of purity advance to the Fifth World following death. Now, at our final Purification, when our Earth is about to reach Her highest place, we all have the opportunity to progress to the Fifth World. We can do this by living with faith, love, humility, and courage, remaining immovable from the Earth through all the trials and temptations to come.

Our sun System has its own spectrum of density, sound, and light, as we move from the outermost orbit inward to the orbit of the Morning Star. Our journey to the Fifth World progresses with the evolutionary changes wrought upon us each time our Earth advances toward the sun, following the path of migration. When the Earth ascends to become the new Morning Star, we will be raised into the highest density of our system, where our evolution will be completed. To reach our present state we have remained upon our mother world progressing up each rung of the evolutionary ladder, now one step from our completed life.

Many cults and religious organizations are announcing the imminence of a new era, and declaring themselves to have a monopoly on the truth. However much it may differ from our ideas of what the truth should be, this is the truth: in the very near future Mercury and Venus are going to enter the sun and be altered into energy; our Moon will move into the orbit vacated by Mercury; and the Earth will enter the orbit vacated by Venus, the Morning Star. All other Worlds, from Pluto to Mars, will move one position closer to the sun. Earth will become the new Fifth World (new heaven), and Mars will become the new Fourth World (new Earth) following the “pattern of migration.”

And I saw a new heaven and a new Earth: for the first heaven and the first Earth had passed away. (Revelation 21:1)

As described above, a solar system is self-propagating: it is produced by the sun, then consumed by the sun, and reproduced by the sun. This pattern perpetuates infinitely. The Egyptian symbol of the snake consuming its own tail was intended to illustrate the self-propagating nature of a solar system. Integral to this system is the evolution of species from raw material into their final form. In our completed forms, we are part of a large family serving God, who gladly perform services which are indispensable to the maintenance of a solar system, helping the younger worlds and their life to follow in our footsteps.

Referring to this process, the ceremonies of some native peoples represent each planet as a bird in the nest of our solar system who periodically hatch their eggs. In some of these cosmologies, each planet is designated with its own color and sacred bird, for example, turquoise and the Great Horned Owl for the Fourth World Earth.

When a planet makes a transition from one orbit to another, the newly evolved lifeforms are adapted to live in their new environments, closer to the sun. The sun acts as an incubator: as God's creations draw nearer the sun, more heat and energy are released to them, and they are evolved to a higher form. This fits with the theory proposed by some scientists, based on the fossil record. This theory is known as Punctuated Equilibria: life remains fairly constant over long periods (equilibrium over the span of a given World-Age); then, relatively suddenly, life makes major evolutionary advances (the punctuation at the end of Purification Times).

All planets are surrounded by varying kinds and amounts of gases. While our Earth is the only planet with an atmosphere suitable for life as we know it, the atmosphere of other planets are suited to life forms which exist on those planets. Elders explain that the next transition will bring about the final stage in the growth pattern of man upon the Earth. When humankind moves into the orbit of the Morning Star with the Earth, we will realize our full potential.

Behold, I shew you a mystery. We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye....the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. (1Cor. 15:51)

Our joyful completion in the Fifth World - the destiny hoped for each of us from our earliest beginnings with the Earth – will occur for those of us then living, and for those who have died and are held within the Heart of our Earth. It is from the living Earth Heart that we have been resurrected from lifetime-to-lifetime, ever striving toward heaven (see Appendix 2).

(1Cor. 15: 35-36, 47, 52) ...But someone may say, "How are the dead raised? With what kind of body will they come back?"...The first man is from the earth, earthy; the second man is from heaven...What you sow is not brought to life unless it dies.

(The Koran, Chapter of the Pilgrimage) O ye folk! If ye are in doubt about the raising of the dead, verily, I created you from soil of Earth, then from a clot of mud, then from congealed blood, then from a morsel, shaped or shapeless, that I may explain to you. And I make what I please rest in the womb until an appointed time...I am God, I am Truth, I quicken the dead; and the Hour is coming, there is no doubt therein, when I shall raise up those who are in the tombs.

Our Earth, and all of us now upon Her, have gone through this same transition six times before in our earlier forms, as the Earth has progressed orbit-to-orbit toward our Home as the Morning Star. Before our last Purification, the Earth sat in the orbit now held by Mars (Fig. 4). To reach where we are now we have remained immovable from our Earth Mother - the immovable race - and need hold fast to Her once more to reach our home and receive our crowning life.

When put to the test, will we be faithful to the Earth, or walk down a darkened road? Would it not be wise to humbly bow to our Creator, as the children we still are, faithfully asking to be guided safely home?

Our Future Choices & The Great Deception

As mentioned earlier, we will soon face important choices which will decide our futures. These choices will arrive unexpectedly, when an allegedly new discovery of Time will suddenly be acclaimed as a wonderful boon to humankind. We will all be faced with whether to stay with our Earth, or abandon Her, whether to remain within the calendar Time we have with our world now, or travel into a new Time structure that will then be offered, and later forced upon us.

These choices will determine whether we progress to the Morning Star with the Earth, or are uprooted from Her life. Those who abandon the Earth into the unnatural Time-frame will leave our world behind, and their glorious destiny with Her. The new Time reality, falsely and seductively presented, will truly be an abomination that desolates our world.

So when you see standing in the Holy Place “the abomination that causes desolation,” spoken of through the prophet Daniel, let the reader understand, then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. (Matthew 24:15-16)

One place where these coming choices have been depicted is in an ancient stone carving found in Arizona, U.S.A. On their reservation, in the Northeast corner of the state, are found an ancient people: the Hopi. Upon Black Mesa, where they live, there is a timeworn petroglyph sometimes called the Prophecy Rock, a prophetic road plan which describes two different roads for life. The upper road ends in a zig-zag line which trails away to oblivion; while the lower road goes on to life and abundance following the birth of a “mystery egg.”

Before the upper road zig-zags to its abrupt end, there is a “return path” leading down to the lower road, a final chance for us to choose the Earth. The Prophecy Rock indicates that some people will choose the wrong road, an errant path (Time-frame) which will soon be open to us.

As noted earlier, Homo sapien, “man wise,” is not God’s completed creation. Indeed, “man wise” is yet a baby, but a bit of a conceited baby who when given the choice may choose himself over God. How can we choose ourselves over God? If people decide to end their evolution at this present stage of our incomplete development, they are opting out of God’s scheme and pursuing desires of their own. Some of God’s children accept His/Her presence and power unquestioningly, but others may question.

How is it that these important choices will come to us at the end of this age? Our Earth Mother sends warning against transgressors already in our midst who perform abominations upon the land and upon cattle, and who would lure us away from the Earth, our home, and use us for their despicable purposes.

There are evil-doers among us who have deserted the ways of God, who will entice us away from our world with false promises and sweet words. They will tempt us with the idea of prolonged life to lure us to their Time-frame: a dazzling world filled with technological wonders. But technological advancement does not mean biological or spiritual advancement. The world we will be lured to will be an unholy place outside the Great Spirit’s plan for life.

We are not meant to live forever in our present bodies. It is natural to be born, and to die. Through death we evolve forward to higher life. To step out of the natural cycle of life and death, into the “new” Time-frame, is to stop our forward progress on Earth, placing us on a road to utter ruin, to perdition.

These bodies we call Homo sapien are wonderful indeed; we have come a long way with the Earth to receive them. But they are not the completion of God’s plan for us. While we remain with the Earth there is no sting to death, only great reward. Those who break the Great Spirit’s laws, abandoning their Earth Mother for the unholy Time structure, face a dark future with a true sting to death.

And when this which is corruptible clothes itself with incorruptibility, and this which is mortal clothes itself with immortality, then the word that is written shall come about: “Death is swallowed up in victory. Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?” The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law...” (1Cor. 15: 54-56)

The Unholy Time and It’s Glamorous Illusion

This subject will be discussed in detail in Chapter 4, and is included here as part of the general overview of this chapter.

We are warned that in the near future, as in the last World Age, we will be told of a new Time reality, and every effort will be made to tempt us to leave this world into this “new” Time. Television, newspapers, radio, every form of media will dangle a glittering new world before us: Time-travel and technology beyond our wildest imagination. We must not listen to these tempters who will try to instill fear in us of what is to come, and fear of the Earth which has bore and sustained us.

Those who proclaim the “new” Time-frame will be setting a snare meant to catch and use us to realize their dark agenda. These ungodly ones, spoken of in many of the world’s scriptures, need us, but we do not need them! They know there is little time left before our Earth ascends to become the new Fifth World. They are working to entrap as many of us as they can during the remaining time of this World-Age. Once again the “snake” will use sweet words to seduce us into utilizing knowledge not meant for us, while we are yet unfinished in our development.

Very soon the dark ones will come and teach us how to prolong life with them, as they lure us to their Time zone. People may think, “How can they be evil? They look like ordinary people; they look just like us.” But though they do look like normal people, do not be misled, for they are not normal. In sacred texts they are referred to as “beasts.”

The Great Spirit has given dominion over His world to His children. The ones who broke their covenants with God do not have dominion over us, or over the Great Spirit’s world in which we live. Elders tell us that the “beasts” had their lives prolonged for thousands of years. But they lost their dominion in God’s world when they abandoned their Earth Mothers into the forbidden Time.

Let them go out from among us, but do not follow them. Do not enter their Time-frame, nor even look at what they have to offer. Search your hearts and accept this familiar world in which we have always lived. Accept the Time upon the Earth that was established for us in the beginning by the Spirit of God. For only by staying with our Earth, in the Great Spirit's calendar Time, can we reach heaven.

In the very last days, before our Earth flies home to the Morning Star, those from the unholy Time-frame will descend upon our world, using the fear and confusion of that period to further ensnare us. They may claim to be saving us from the end of our world, or even to be angels! They are capable of saying or doing anything that will lure us away with them. Only those who remain immovable from the Earth will reach the Morning Star. Who would trade their bright future with the Earth for the dark future of our tempters? Do not be deceived; this is the true choice we will be making. As written:

For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth. Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man. (Luke 21:35-36)

Figures

Figure 1 The Sunflower Sandpainting

This rendition of the Southwest Pueblo sunflower sand painting, as with the original, represents our solar system. It is shown with eight inner circles, the planetary orbits of our system, plus an outer circle surrounded by petals/rays representing the sun (as Mercury is an ejected core/moon, it is not included). See Fig. 3 for more detail.

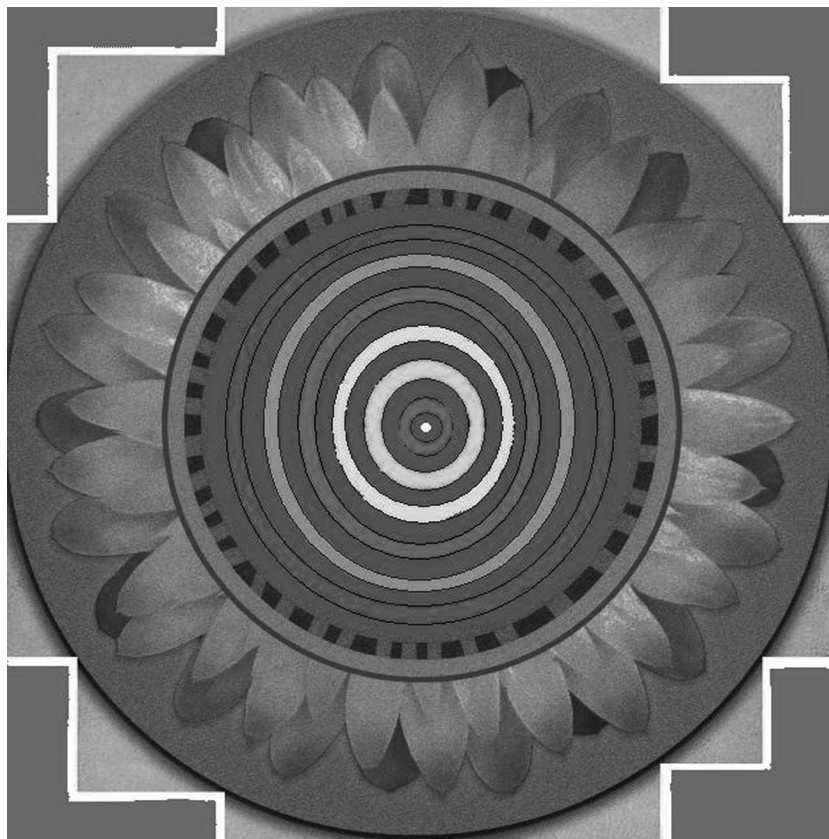

Figure 2
Sunflower Sand Painting
Earth In Fourth World Position

Final Ring Representing The Fifth World Position To Come
Following Earth's Migration At The End of This Purification

Figure 3

The Sunflower Sand Painting Stages & Worlds

The sunflower sand painting showing the eight orbits of our solar system in two groups: the three outermost orbits (the earliest stages of our evolving life), and the next five Worlds/orbits ending in the crowning place of our System: the Morning Star. The center circle symbolizes the outermost orbit of our system, with each proceeding circle being an orbit nearer the sun.

} Three Earliest Stages
Present Orbits of Pluto,
Neptune, and Uranus

} The Five Worlds: Present
Orbits of Saturn (1st World),
Jupiter (2nd World), Mars (3rd World), Earth (4th World), &
Venus (5th World-Heaven)

Figure 4

Our Inner-Terrestrial Planets Before the Last Purification

During the last Purification all worlds moved nearer the sun, with David and Hermes entering into it: Venus moved up to become the new Fifth World, and Her moon (the ejected Core of David from the previous Purification) moved up to become what we presently know as Mercury.

The following color-codes are given to help follow the movement of Worlds through the different Purification Times, shown in Figures 3, 4, and 5 (markers can be used to color each World).

Color-code of Worlds starting from left: Blue, Violet, Green, all Moons/Hermes: Gray.

Figure 5
Our Inner Planets Now
After our Last Purification

Color code, starting from left: Red, Blue, Violet
(all Moons/Mercury: Gray).

Figure 6

Our Inner Planets After the Next Purification

At the end of the Purification we have now begun, the planets of our system will move up an orbit nearer the sun, as during previous Purifications (see Fig. 4). Following this Purification our inner planets will end in the orbits shown below: Venus and Mercury will enter the sun and be converted into energy; our Earth Mother will move into the orbit of the Morning Star-Fifth World (the new heaven); Mars will move up to take our place as the new Fourth World (the new Earth), receiving the Earth's ejected Core (which remains in our old orbit) as its moon. Ending its stint as a gas giant, Jupiter will move up to replace Mars as the new Third World.

Color-code of Worlds starting from left: Orange, Red, Blue, Violet (entering sun), all Moons/New-Old Mercury: Gray.

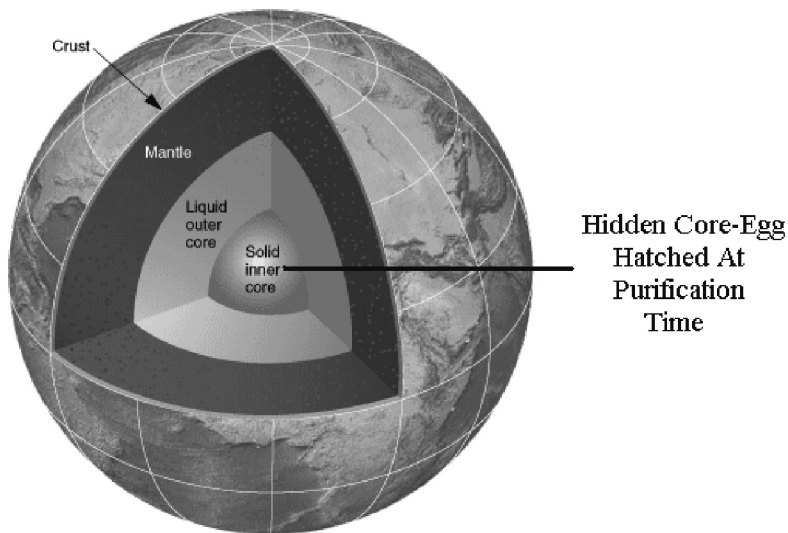

Figure 7 Cross-Section of Earth and Her Core-Heart

The Earth showing Her solid, inner Core, which is ejected-born at the end of Purification Times, becoming a moon. The increasingly severe weather and geological disturbances are the Earth's birth pains, as She readies to eject Her Core/Egg out the Weddell Sea. Mainstream science recognizes the Earth's solid Core is the size of a moon, but hasn't yet discovered it is periodically ejected as part of a natural cycle. The ancient Egyptian's knew of the hidden moon within the Earth, which they referred to when they spoke "Amen" / "Amon," which meant "hidden one" (hidden moon), the Earth's Core-Heart.

Chapter 3

God's Evolutionary Process The Sacred Path of Migration And Punctuated Equilibria

Whether you like it or not, whether you know it or not, secretly all Nature seeks God and works toward Him

(Meister Eckhart)

This chapter examines the process of planetary migrations, and the evolutionary process occurring within sun systems. Those who are not inclined toward this type of analysis may wish to proceed to the next chapter on “Time.”

As a mentor once explained:

Perhaps the greatest difference between native religions and others, is this: we believe in God and evolution. We believe God's greatest work is through evolution. God is the Divine Artist, evolution is the divine art; we are His clay; death is His kiln.

Present day ideas about evolution arise from those of Charles Darwin, who envisioned many, small transitional changes in organisms, with offspring varying slightly from their parents. As a small change proved advantageous, it was implemented. As later changes brought further improvements for survival and reproduction, they were carried into future generations. However, all efforts to trace the origin of man are dependent upon a fossil record which is unable to provide an unbroken series of transitional forms. Rather than supporting an unbroken pattern of development, fossil evidence strengthens the case for punctuated equilibria.

“Punctuated equilibria” means that evolution takes place in a series of sudden and repeated changes. According to punctuated equilibria, our solar system is the scene of regular changes, where long periods of equilibrium (relative uniformity) are interrupted by brief periods of excitation (punctuation). This throws a very different light on evolution. Scientists are now considering the possibility that planets undergo transitions from one orbit to another. This implies the Earth has served terms in each of the orbits, which are presently occupied by Pluto, Neptune, Uranus, Saturn, Jupiter, and Mars.

Origin of Life Conference

The universe is in the business of making life.

(Dr. Cyril Ponnampereuma)

On July 21, 1986, more than 260 scientists from over 20 nations gathered in California to discuss the origin of life on Earth. Dr. Cyril Ponnampereuma, director of the chemical evolution laboratory of the University of Maryland, expressed the opinion of everyone present when he said, “...The processes which led to life on Earth must have started elsewhere in the universe...”

It is common knowledge that the conditions prevailing in the Earth’s present position (approximately 149 ½ million km. from the sun) are unsuitable for the formation of life. Any search for the origins of humanity has to look for a place with much colder conditions, and with an atmosphere of hydrogen and hydrogen compounds. The most plausible explanation is that terrestrial life is a phenomenon which originated in an outlying orbit of the Solar System, where microorganisms were gathered by the convolutions of the Earth and packed into hard ice - conditions perfect for the preservation of organic material.

It would seem that the Earth has transported organic material from a cold, outlying orbit, across the solar system. At the gathering on the origins of life, scientist's referred to orbits as K, L, M, N, O, etc., with orbit "K" (presently Mercury) being closest to the sun. Ceres was included with the accompanying asteroids, as revolving in the "O" orbit. Organic material gathered from space and rolled into the icy mass of primordial Earth was carried into the "T" orbit (presently Pluto) during the first period of excitation.

During excitation (the "punctuation" period), the organisms underwent changes which resulted in the exact degree of adaptive alteration necessary to suit the organisms to conditions prevailing in orbit "T": an increased level of energy during excitation would result in significant changes in organs and body parts, leading to the exact degree of adaptive change necessary to fit organisms to the different environs of an orbit nearer the sun.

Upon return to equilibrium, the core of the Earth provided the electromagnetic stimulation necessary to sustain biological replication. This process was repeated, with the energy unleashed during each subsequent period of excitation producing further bioevolutionary improvements (at the end of Purification Times).

The raised energy level during the excited states of the solar system brought about the changes in evolution supported by the fossil record. Therefore, organisms do have their origin in other pre-existing types; however, differences are not due to gradual modification over successive generations. Such gradual modification is patently absent in existing species, further strengthening the case for punctuated equilibria.

Science has undergone a radical departure from the concept of evolution through gradual change. Our best minds no longer think of planets in terms of bodies which have spent millions of years in the same orbit. Instead, the equilibrium of the solar system is said to be interrupted at regular intervals by brief explosions of energy - the “excitation” during Purification Times. This explains not only the abrupt appearance of new species, but also the stability of form and structure in species, and the distribution of transitional fossils.

Changes are not uniform throughout organisms, since those organisms packed in a blanket of ice lower down in primordial Earth would be ahead in development, due to their greater exposure to the electromagnetic influence of the core of the planet. Different levels of development would be carried along the “orbital line” to the terrestrial orbits, with species at various stages of development co-existing as they do. A further consideration is that of “racial-regional” differences, such differences being due to geophysical conditions, with species being adapted both orbitally and geographically.

God’s plan for man is yet incomplete on Earth. We are still in the act of becoming what Nature has long been leading us toward. If we could accept that evolution and creation are not mutually exclusive, so much would become clear. Evolution is God’s Kiln, and man is still in the making. From our root ancestor through all subsequent hominids, we have a long history together in God’s Kiln.

All of Earth’s history did not unfold in this third orbit from the sun, and the gap between “creation” and “evolution” has been closed: if we consider a “day” in Genesis to be equal to one period of equilibrium, we are able to explain the seven days of creation as being the seven periods of equilibrium in each of our orbits.

The ideal conditions for God’s earliest work exist in the furthestmost orbit in the solar system. Pluto would therefore be the lump of snow-covered clay (a “Snowball Earth”) from which God first fashioned mankind.

Out of whose womb came the ice? And the ancient frost of heaven, who hath gendered it? The waters are hid as with a stone, and the face of the deep is frozen. (Job 38:29-30)

But until Earth Mother formed Her clouds (melted the hard ice) and “watered the whole face of the ground,” there was not a man yet to “serve the ground,” and no “herb of the field yet sprouted to be our meat.” Only after the rain, and after the air (and “God breatheth [air] into his nostrils [the] breath of life”), did “man becometh a living creature.”

Life cannot be separated from soil, water, and air. We gratefully give thanks to our Earth Mother for Her soil, water, and air. She formed us, gave us life, and sustains our lives with Her soil, water, air, and fire. Should we not be thankful for the herbs of the field which sprout to be our meat? Should we take what the Earth silently and faithfully provides to us and give no thought to returning Her service? With awakened understanding, we thankfully serve the ground from which we were taken.

Remember, I pray Thee, That as clay thou hast made me,
And unto dust Thou dost bring me back. (Job 10:9)

And Jehovah God formeth the man— dust from the ground, and beatheth into his nostrils the breath of life, and the man becometh a living creature. (Genesis 2:7)

Jehovah God sendeth him forth from the garden of Eden to serve the ground from which he hath been taken. (Genesis 3:23)

The Hidden Egg – Egg Mysteries

Our Earth Mother keeps Her secrets well; and close to Purification She asks us to release the great news of Her upcoming birthing.

(Native American Priest)

An elder and holy man once asked how certain examples of past historical devastation could be explained. As he queried:

The destruction of colossal structures such as the Mayan cities of Yucatan, and the burial of Leptis Magna, illustrate the chaos wrought on Earth by an unseen agent of Nature. From the Menhirs of Carnac to the Nazca lines of Peru, enigmatic monuments bear evidence of the disappearance of prehistoric man, and in sudden and unexpected cataclysmic changes. The force that acted upon Mother Earth did not distinguish between temples, palaces, and simple domiciles. It swallowed all structures in its path. What agency provided such powerful upheavals?

In answer to his question, it was explained that the birth (ejection) of a Core from a host planet causes an inward collapse and subsidence of most structures on the planet's crust. The ejected Core settles very near to the body of the mother planet, and is known to man as a lunar body, moon, or natural satellite. In other words, when the Core is ejected the host planet's crust "caves in," breaking and burying most surface structure. Thus the need to dig deeply when going in search of earlier civilizations, which are, in fact, our legacy from the Earth when She was in a previous orbit.

The process within which our evolution occurs, the "Sacred Path of Migration," involves the "Hidden (Core) Egg" within each world, the basis of the Egg Mysteries down through the ages. "Hermes The Word" (the Greek God of letters, medicine, and wisdom, and cognate with Mercury and Egyptian Thoth) is woven into Aegean "Hidden Egg" mysteries. Hermes is the Egg within his Mother (Core within the Earth).

The mystery of Hermes' birth heralds the new Era-Aeon: the birth of the Cores sending each world nearer the sun. Hermes was the original "hermaphrodite" (Hermes within Aphrodite), the Core (masculine) united within the body of the Earth (feminine) (Appendix 2). The knowledge of the coming birth of the Hidden-Core-Egg is known to some in the modern world, but has thus far been suppressed. Continuing in The Book of Revelation Chapter 5:

And I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written and on the back sealed with seven seals. And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, 'Who is worthy to open the book, and loosen the seals thereof?'... And the Lamb came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne. And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders (24 hours of the day: Time) fell down before the Lamb.... (1-8, edited)

Elders explain that the book that is written within, and sealed on the back with seven seals, contains the wisdom of Time. The seven seals represent the seven Earth Mother Cores, one inner Core for each orbit She has held. The amount of days in a week is not arbitrary, but is taken from the seven inner Cores (not the later moons) of the Earth during Her seven cycles - from the Plutonian orbit on to our present one. The seven inner Cores are the seven biblical Aeons, or divine Years. Aeon is another name for the Alexandrian God, Kore. Aeon and Kore represent the seven Earth Cores referred to in the Judeo Christian bible as seven “lamps.”

The Greek Divine Child, Kore (Earth Core-Heart) was worshipped as the World Soul who animated each human soul. In the 4th century A.D., Kore’s festival celebrated the birth of the New Year God Aeon to the Virgin Earth Mother, Demeter. Demeter’s image, decorated with gold stars, was carried seven times (seven orbits/Cores to our present orbit) around the temple (sun). At the culmination of the ceremony, Demeter’s priests announced jubilantly to the public that the Virgin Earth Mother had brought forth Her Child (birthed Her Core/Egg). Kore’s ancient festival was assimilated into Christianity as the modern day feast of Epiphany.

Here are my native father’s words on the hidden moon-core.

As our Earth Mother rotates around her axis, and as She revolves around Father sun, She also flies with the rest of the solar system through space. All this running around causes movement within Her. This movement is called “differentiation”: heavy material sinks and light material rises. The same thing happens when a man pans for gold:

the gold sinks; also when a woman shakes corn, the husks rise. In the body of our Earth Mother heavy material sinks and light material rises. Metals sink downwards and they have formed an iron egg in Her center. This iron egg grows with every passing minute, as differentiation continues. Because She does not stop hurrying around, we call Her “hurrying around woman,” among the many other names She has. As long as Her motion continues, metal sinks towards Her center and Her egg grows.

(Euroamerican) scientists know that with every passing day the speed of the Earth Mother’s motion is slowed down. This is because of the heavy material sinking down into Her center. When Her egg is too heavy for Her to keep in Her womb, it will come out.

We can understand when a woman has a baby; we can understand when a bird lays an egg; but it is not easy to accept that our Earth Mother is also busy hatching an Egg. Why do we think She cannot give birth? Maybe because it is beyond our human minds to believe She is alive, as we are.

(Euroamerican) scientists call Her Egg the core of the Earth. They know it exists. They suspect it is an iron egg. They argue among themselves about the Nature of the egg. They do not know it will come out. They do not know it is this egg, growing bigger every day, which causes our Mother’s motion to slow down. They do not know it is the growing egg which causes all the weather changes we now witness...Our Mother keeps Her secrets well. Close to Purification, She asks us to release the great news of Her upcoming birthing.

The Hidden Core-Moon & Earth Changes

It is a well-known fact of science that the Earth's rotation slows at a rate of 0.005 seconds per year. The slowing of the Earth's rotation is due to the increasing weight of the Core. The Core of the Earth (and those of other worlds) continues to grow through what geologists call differentiation: heavier minerals/metals move downward adding to the weight of the inner Core, which slows the axial rotation of the world.

What will take place when the weight of the Core exceeds the weight of the Earth? A holy event: the Day of Purification, in which everything in Nature will evolve to higher life in unison as the Cores emerge. A point is finally reached where the weight of the growing Core can no longer be held within the Earth. It is then ejected through the Earth's birth canal, emerging from an Antarctic sea. Immediately thereafter, the lightened Earth flies to a new orbit nearer the sun, the ejected Core becoming a moon.

The craters of our moon are not all impact craters as scientists believe. If they were they would show evidence of skid marks made by meteoric movement following impact. Where are the remains of the meteors expected from the massive number of craters found on the lunar surface? They are missing. The impact theory of lunar craters must somehow explain the disappearance of meteoritic material after impact.

With few exceptions, lunar craters have uniform cross angles. For this to be caused by meteoric impact, every meteorite would have had to rain down on the moon from every conceivable angle, striking the moon at right angles to the surface, while bypassing Earth who remains unscathed by this torrential rain. The impact theory clearly is lacking.

The true cause of most lunar craters are gaseous emissions: when the boiling, blistering Core is ejected, then experiencing the below freezing conditions of space, the blisters (or gas bubbles) burst, and settle into craters. The lunar surface exhibits lava seas (mares) and gaseous craters in keeping with what would be expected of the surface of an ejected Core. New scientific theories may arise, but they will continue to change until moons are recognized as ejected Cores (by those who do not already know the truth).

As discussed, when the hidden Core-Egg is ejected, the world birthing it then moves an orbit nearer the sun. During the period when the Earth gives birth to Her Core, becoming lighter and flying like a Phoenix toward the sun, we shall all be changed, receiving our completed forms as the Earth assumes the orbit and density of the Morning Star:

...We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump...
(1Cor 15: 51)

As noted, our Earth Mother is now in labor to birth Her Core. The cradle of the changes in the world's climate is the Weddell Sea in West Antarctica. The Weddell Sea is the Earth's yoni, the point where her Core will come out. So understandably, there is a lot of activity going on under the Weddell Sea floor, as the Earth's time to give birth draws nearer. The heat produced by the Earth's inner laboring rises to the surface through Her birth canal into the Antarctic, where the atmosphere and ocean currents there are altered. This is the true cause of global warming, not greenhouse gases, which cannot adequately explain the rising earthquake and volcanic activity in the world.

The global warming and severe weather would be occurring even if we were not an industrial, fossil fuel driven culture. Science does not always correctly distinguish between environmental changes which are caused by Nature, and those which are caused by man. The warming which is melting the ice shelves in West Antarctica is one case of mistaken identity.

How can changes in the Antarctic atmosphere and ocean currents cause climatic change? The world climate is very sensitive to the extent of the winter sea ice, which normally increases during winter. Sea ice insulates the ocean from the atmosphere, stabilizes the surface water, and maintains a balanced Antarctic atmosphere. A balanced Antarctic atmosphere is important to a balanced world atmosphere. Lately, the Antarctic atmosphere has been increasingly agitated. Higher than normal (and climbing) ocean temperatures and rapidly melting ice is disturbing the atmosphere.

Less sea ice results in reduced reflection and insulation. This has a direct effect on the Antarctic atmosphere, causing local weather changes which impact on the world's climate. In other words, the sea ice-pack stabilizes ocean conditions, and stable ocean conditions maintain a stable world atmosphere. Previously, stable polar conditions exerted a balancing influence over the Earth's climate. Now, increasing temperatures in the Antarctic translate into large fluctuations in world temperatures, as well as increasingly severe typhoons, hurricanes, tornadoes, etc.

Presently, the amount of heat lost to the Antarctic atmosphere is significant. The greatest consistent rise in temperature in the Southern Hemisphere is taking place in the vicinity of the Weddell Sea, where the meteorological records of the British Antarctic Survey, Faraday Research Station, show a rise in mean annual air temperature of 2.5° C. Though this figure may appear small, in terms of the affect on sea ice, and the atmosphere, it is great. The mystery of the changing world climate is not really a mystery, and man is not to be blamed. A butterfly is flapping its wings in Antarctica.

Between now and the birth of the Core, the weather will become more unpredictable, as our Earth's birth pains intensify. There will be more earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, and severe storms, as the Earth nears Her time of birth.

Dying is as natural as breathing. Through life and death we have been naturally progressing toward the Fifth World. Those who hold fast to the Earth through this final Purification will receive their crowning life, when She ascends to the throne of our system. As stated in the New Testament:

But that which ye have [already] hold fast till I come. And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations.... And I will give him the morning star. (Rev 2:25-26, 28) There are both heavenly bodies and earthly bodies, but the brightness of the heavenly is one kind and that of the earthly another...So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown corruptible; it is raised incorruptible...The first man was from the earth, earthly; the second man, from heaven... (1Cor 15: 40, 42, 47)

The Sacred Path or Pattern of Migration

Solar systems originate from the material which is ejected out of a supernova, an exploded sun. I use the word "explosion" as a "burst of life," and not as an uncontrolled explosion of a human device. A sun explodes and material is hurled into space. This material, or “solar ejecta,” forms a colorful halo, a living cloud, a luminous radiance of microorganisms, vapor, and rarified gas - a nebula.

God’s invisible hands gather the material in the nebula into planets. The exploded sun forms a powerful vortex at the center of the nebula which sucks back some material, and a new, smaller sun is formed. The rotating planets grow, packing the material of the nebula into hard ice. The planets circle the sun, and the nebula is transformed into a solar system.

The planets and other bodies in the solar system travel around the sun in an orderly manner until the sun requires fuel, at which time the Core in the first orbit (now Mercury), and the planet in the second orbit (now Venus) are drawn into the sun, and transformed into energy (Fig. 5). Simultaneously, all the other planets in the solar system move closer to the sun. The Moon in the third orbit (now ours) moves up two positions, settling into the orbit presently held by Mercury. Following the end of this Purification, our Earth will move up to become the new Fifth World, and Mars will take our place as the new Fourth World.

And I saw a new heaven and a new Earth: for the first heaven and the first Earth had passed away. (Rev. 21:1)

Each step toward the sun produces new species, adapted to live in the changed conditions of their new positions and densities. Upon the Earth, we will advance from our present Homo sapien forms to our perfected, eternal ones, Jung’s Homo maximus. Our Earth will then be wonderfully transformed, as we join a large family throughout the universe, perfected children of the Morning Stars, serving the Great Spirit within creation: “where the morning stars sing together, and all the sons of God shout for joy.” (Job 38:7, paraphrase)

The following describes how the pattern of migration occurs for the inner, terrestrial planets of our system. For clarity’s sake, I will start with the body we call Mercury: Mercury is an ejected Core. Elders tell us Mercury’s host planet was known as David in earlier times, and that it entered the sun during the last Purification, along with the Core then holding the position now held by Mercury (Fig. 4).

The order of the solar system was different before our last Purification: in first orbital position and closest to the sun was Hermes, a Core (identical to Mercury); in second position was David, a planet which held the orbit now occupied by Venus; in the third position (which our Earth now holds) was Venus, with Mercury as Her moon (as our moon now appears over the Earth); in the fourth position was our Earth (now Mars), home to many species, including early Homo sapiens.

During the last Purification, according to the Sacred Path of Migration, one Core and one planet (Hermes and David) entered the sun and were converted into energy, not destroyed. The purpose of this great work is not to use painstakingly perfected life for fueling the sun. The solar system creates life and brings it to perfection. For our ancestors it would have been a moment to rejoice in: to witness their mother planet who nourished and transported them through the solar system unite with the sun, become the sun!

After the last Purification, after the solar system settled down, Mercury held the first position, Venus occupied the second position, and Earth held the third position along with our moon - the ejected Core of Venus. When Venus birthed Her Core and made the transition into Her present orbit, Her Core remained in the third orbit becoming our moon. Phobos and Deimos (Core in-two) were ejected from Earth during Her term as Mars, shortly before She made her transition to this orbit.

As explained and shown in Figures 4, 5, and 6, during Purification all planets are attracted one orbit closer to the sun. But their Cores remain in the earlier orbit, “moving up” during the next Purification. Therefore, during the coming Purification (Fig. 6), Mercury and Venus will enter the sun and be converted into energy; Our present moon will enter the orbit vacated by Mercury; Earth will eject Her Core and enter the orbit vacated by Venus; Mars will enter our present orbit, receiving our ejected Core as Her new moon; Jupiter will enter the orbit now held by Mars - being closer to the sun, Jupiter will no longer be a member of the Jovian group; She will be a terrestrial planet.

As shown in Figure 3, the outermost three orbits of our system (Pluto, Neptune, and Uranus) are the three earliest stages of evolving life, with the next five planetary orbits being numbered as “Worlds” by some native peoples, presently: Saturn/First World; Jupiter/Second World; Mars/Third World; Earth/Fourth World, and Venus/Fifth “forever” World. From the frozen “Snowball Earth” of the Plutonian orbit, we have come a long way to our present Fourth World position, with our nearly perfected development as Homo sapiens.

Sense Perception and Density Spectra

We all know that we see and hear within a certain range. For example, dogs can hear sounds at higher frequencies in the audio spectrum than humans can perceive. Density spectra are not unlike other spectra in their way of impacting on us: we can hear within a limited range of sound; we can see within a limited range of colors; and we can perceive, with all of our senses, within a limited range of density. Elders tell us that every planet has its own color spectrum, sound spectrum, and density spectrum. Working our way inward from Pluto, the density spectra increase, the Morning Star having the greatest density of our system.

At present it is well known that the density of Venus is greater than that of Earth, while the density of Mars is less than that of Earth. Bearing this in mind, and using water as a medium, if water on Mars is of a lesser density than that of water on Earth, how do we perceive water on Mars? The fact is that we do not perceive it. Elders tell us it is there, but we have no perception of it because it lies outside of our density spectrum - just as we do not perceive sound outside of our sound spectrum. Our ability to perceive other life in our solar system is a function of the limited range of our Fourth World spectrum: we can only perceive the other worlds and their life where their densities overlap into our own range of sensory perception.

For example, we do not perceive any vegetation on Mars. According to the Sacred Path of Migration it is there, but it exists outside of our density spectrum. We could walk through a river or a sea on Mars, but because its water is less dense than our air we are unable to perceive it. We could walk through a jungle on Mars, passing trees and prehistoric creatures without being aware of their presence. We could pass right through a tree, or through the walls of a cave where the occupants dine noisily. We would be unaware of them, and they would be equally unaware of us, because our densities lie outside of our abilities to perceive one another.

Hellas Basin on Mars is referred to as the “sand dune crater” because the floor of Hellas is heaped into sand dunes in the form of a sea floor. The floor of Hellas is the deepest point on Mars, and as we know here on Earth, winds cannot prevail at such depths. So our scientists have naturally questioned how these dunes on Mars could have formed. According to the knowledge of our differing densities, they could form from the presence of water, Hellas then being the deepest point of a Martian ocean. Water on Mars, being less dense than our terran atmosphere, would then fall outside of our density spectrum, and would therefore be imperceptible to our instruments, which are manufactured out of materials far denser than the spectrum of Mars.

Chapter 4

Time

There is a river, the streams whereof make glad the city of God, the holiest dwelling-place of the Most High.

(Psalm 46:4)

H.G. Wells wrote a story about a machine built to travel in Time. But it doesn't require a special machine to turn our backs on God and heaven. Not only is Time travel possible, it has been happening all around us, but the means to do so has been kept a dark secret. One group hides it from us for our own good, because it is the ultimate temptation leading us away from heaven, others keep it a secret for vast financial gain and political power. By using this temporal knowledge, our entire planet becomes a "gateway" to the rest of the solar system, and the solar system, a "gateway" to the universe. "Gateway" technology has always been here, but the knowledge has been suppressed by those who secretly use it.

The history of the war between religion and secret orders goes back to time immemorial, and its crux, as with most wars, has been a battle over territory: the Space-Time/Divided Time domain. There are people - a handful of the very rich and famous, the members of certain secret societies, private clubs, and political leaders - who have crossed the threshold of Real-Time into Split-Time. Elders inform us that these people have hand signals and items of jewelry that allow them to distinguish one another from among those who have not gone into the Space-Time/Divided-Time realm.

The Space-Time system (Time as Direction), soon to be acclaimed throughout our world (End Time), will not be read as seconds, minutes, and hours as we have now, but as degrees, and seconds of degrees as on a compass (direction). Every “moment” in Time will be a “point/place” in space, hence the term “Space-Time” (also, Divided-Time, Split-Time, Half-Time, and Arcadia, among other references). Every moment in Time will be an “event” in space. In other words, it won’t be a nanosecond, it will be an “incident” or “event” in space, related to compass direction.

Space-Time is a misnomer because there is no Time outside the Earth. My first mentor explained that Time unfolds on and near to the body of a planet. As one moves further from the surface of a planet Time becomes weaker and weaker until, beyond the effect of the planet’s gravity, Time ceases to exist. Elders inform us that Time is nonexistent in outer space. The term “Space-Time” really means an absence of time. Another way to conceive of Space-Time is Timelessness. To step into the Space-Time structure is to step out of Time - out of the progressive calendar Time provided on Earth.

Here are some words of my native father on the subject of Time (emphases are his).

I want to speak in this room about “Time” and about God. First, I want to say this, so that you know you have heard these words from an old native man: TIME IS DIRECTION. There is nothing new in this!...When others come to you and tell you “Time is Direction,” remember! you already know this from one who has known it for a long time! I know this and yet I keep silent on it, as does every native elder who knows this. On this secret, ONLY (as we are instructed to speak out now), we must keep silent. Because if we speak too much, we may hurry (Euroamericans) into discovering how to move around in Time, and do many dishonorable things.

As Native American Indians, we HONOR the directions, because we honor TIME. We love TIME, and we will always remain in TIME as it is read by a clock and a calendar (on Earth). Because to step out of Time is to lose our place in the Pattern of Migration, the sacred path of evolution...

Timeless space is not waiting around to be discovered by a human physicist. Long ago it was discovered and heavily exploited. People understand that the universe existed long before humans arrived on the scene. As Edgar Mitchell counseled, humankind's understanding of the universe is still incomplete. As described in "The Sacred Path of Migration," even our understanding of the operation of the solar system in which we live is yet incomplete. Although humankind is still learning about the universe, we do not think the universe is waiting around to be discovered. Just as the universe is ancient, we can understand that Space-Time is ancient, existing since the universe began. A long opportunity existed for its discovery, which eventually occurred.

In our present stage, we cannot see beyond our Real-Time. Space-Time(lessness) is just beyond the grasp of our senses. All that unfolds as our reality, unfolds in the Real-Time we know and use on Earth. Because modern man cannot perceive Space-Time, it does not follow that earlier civilizations could not perceive Space-Time. It is entirely possible that earlier civilizations reached a point in their development that led to a more complete understanding of Time, along with a method and system that exploited this Timeless Space.

Can we envision the possibility that so-called “vanished civilizations” comprised two classes of people?: those who abandoned their planet and took up residence in Space-Time; and those who remained on their planet, accepting whatever climatic changes occurred as an inevitable part of their planet’s, and their own, developmental progress at Purification Times.

Although often debated, there are recorded instances of visits by angelic beings, as well as visits by more sinister beings, sometimes called demonic or fallen angels. Those elders who have preserved the knowledge, explain that the angels and the fallen-ones were all people like us at one time. The Time-frame in which a being lives, defines what the being is: remaining within God’s calendar Time with their Earth Mothers, progressing to a perfected, angelic form in the Fifth World, or living in the Space-Time zone, where we can devolve to a devilish form, finally needing to prey upon others to survive. Only through an understanding of Time, and how Time affects evolutionary development, can one come to understand the existence of both “angelic” and “demonic” people.

Knowingly or unknowingly, those who travel from one Time-Zone to another have chosen cold and dark instead of warmth and light as their ultimate fate. It is all too easy to take the first step into Space-Time. But while it is easy to go there, once there it is impossible to come back to a normal life upon the Earth.

The “new” Space-Time structure will be hailed as the greatest discovery of the new millennium, the greatest discovery of all time. Millions of people will be attracted toward living within this allegedly new Time system. For one thing, old age will be touted as a thing of the past. This is pointed to in the bible as “they do not reverence old age.”

There will be a “wave” of people lining up to join the new Time system, while those of us who remain reverencing the Time system of our Earth will be like a “drop.”

...Then answered I and said, I have said before, and now do say again, and will say again also hereafter, that there be many more of them which perish, than of them which shall be saved: Like as a wave is greater than a drop.”
(Apocrypha, 2 Esdras, 9:14-16)

We will be enticed into deserting the Earth by the promise of extremely long life, or even the lie of eternal life in their Time zone, and the wonders of very advanced technology. Added to these lures will be pronouncements of the impending doom of the Earth, or other fearful reasons to abandon Her, all meant to drive us into the “new” Time reality by exploiting our fear of death. But only those whose faith is greater than their fear of dying will reap the reward of heaven, by living and dying upon their Mother Earth.

Whoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whoever shall lose his life shall preserve it. (Luke 17:33)

My native mentor’s words further explain.

Everyone speaks about their choices. It is true, they have the choice to stay or to go. There will be three choices: 1) accept Purification and complete the pattern of evolution (on Earth); 2) Go away with the “star brothers” (lured and pushed onto their ships when they arrive) who have their own secret plans for you (fodder to sustain them), and miss the opportunity to become “final man” (in the Fifth World); 3) Go into Time (Space-Time zone) hoping to escape (the tribulations of) Purification...Earth Mother hopes all Her children will accompany Her in Her next great change.

If we cling tightly to the Earth, staying in Her forward moving “river of Time,” we will inherit the incorruptible forms reserved for those of the Fifth World. If one chooses to step into Space-Time, they had better strive to stay alive forever, because to die in that domain is to be reborn as a cold-blooded fiend, whose habitation in the dark pit of outer space is the real Hell.

Elders describe how the Space-Time world is very enticing and exciting. It has every conceivable technological toy. Anyone seeing the razzle-dazzle of Space-Time-come-Hell could be forgiven for mistaking it as heaven. If you have fallen for these deadly words, “look into the past and learn for the future,” you are probably very involved with a group that practices hidden secrets. In which case, the ancient deception has begun to work on you.

Regardless of how wonderful the new Time reality may at first appear, its end is darkest misery. We are protected from the inevitable, terrible consequences of living in another Time-frame by our covenant with God. As described in the Judeo-Christian bible and in other sacred texts, we are covenanted to remain in the genetic Time-frame especially established for us by God when we were created.

Those who recognize the normalcy of death accept it without fear, understanding that it leads us forward toward a goal God intends for us. Those in this age who have forgotten this truth can fear death, and are those likely to be seduced by the promise of extraordinary longevity in the “new” Time-frame, breaking their covenants by “eating” of this forbidden knowledge.

The Time-frame we live in is ordained by God. It is sacred, and the only route to heaven. While we remain in our own Time-frame we are still in the Divine Potter’s kiln. This world is not a happy, happy place, but we are not in it for long. We don’t have a very long life span in our world, and once it’s over we have the promise of a perfect body, and heaven to come. The seductive fruits of Space-Time will tempt us with prolonged life and high technology. But if we are ensnared by this trap, then the greatest fruit, eternal life in heaven, can be lost, as we tread a road to perdition. As written in the New Testament:

For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? (Matthew 16:26)

To him who overcomes, I will give the right to eat from the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God (Rev. 2:7)

Those that accept the Great Spirit’s pattern of evolving through life and death, overcoming the lures of Space-Time, will evolve to their completed forms. They will “eat from the tree of life” receiving all of God’s promises in the paradise of the Fifth World.

Division of Time / Split-Time / Space-Time (Time-As-Direction)

When people first moved from Real-Time into Space-Time, no doubt, they were stunned to see a world existing in the same orbit as the Earth. By contrast, our world would seem archaic. Space-Time is a place mainstream science has not yet discovered, does not yet know exists so nearby our earthly realm.

Why can't we see people who live in Divided-Time? Apart from satellites and debris, why do our skies appear to be empty? We take for granted the fact that our visible spectral range represents a very small fraction of the full electromagnetic spectrum. We also take for granted that our audible sound range represents a small part of the sound spectrum.

The frequency range of sound, audible to humans, is approximately between 20 and 20,000 Hz - above this range is ultrasound and below it is infrasound. There are ultrasonic frequencies that can be heard by dogs and cats, but not by humans. The bones of a dolphin's ear are almost identical to those of a human ear, but larger, and dolphins communicate at frequencies up to ten times the audible limit of the human ear. Bats communicate between 25-50 kHz. The amplitude range of sound for humans has a lower limit of 0dB SPL, called the threshold of hearing, and an upper limit of 194.09 dB. What of our ability to perceive in Time?

The limitations of sight and sound are placed on our senses by Nature. There are other limitations which we are not aware of, one of which is density, another is Time. It isn't a great leap from sounds and colors that man cannot perceive, to Time-frames that are imperceptible to our senses. If something falls outside of our Time-Zone it is invisible to us. That which is invisible, to all intents and purposes, does not exist for us. But it does exist for those who perceive above or below our Time-frame.

Defection From Space-Time And Need To Ensnare New Inhabitants

At first, many who go into Space-Time can be very impressed, until some of them learn that the people who occupy this technologically driven world have become desperately unhappy. Unhappy because they had “jumped ship” into Space-Time when their own planet occupied the Earth’s present orbit. They later came to realize they would never more walk on the soil of their own mother planet with those they had known and loved. Most of the inhabitants of the super technological Space-Time world, existing alongside ours, were deceived into thinking their planet was on the brink of destruction, when in fact it was on the brink of renewal, as ours is now.

Many of the most disenchanted inhabitants of Space-Time have defected and are defecting. They have chosen to rejoin the inhabitants of Real-Time, thereby re-entering evolution. We of this world welcome them to our Earth Mother, but it is not the same to them. The Earth is not their biological Mother (the one they earlier deserted). They are visitors here, and however hard they try, they will never feel entirely at home among us. They carry a feeling (having lost their original Earth Mothers) that somehow they do not belong here.

Our Earth Mother again stands on the brink of renewal, and we with Her. This being the case, those entities that control Space-Time are going to want to fill the void left by those who defected back into evolution upon our Earth. They are going to try and replace them with others from among our numbers. This is what they do. It is what they have always done.

Be forewarned, if you leave the body of our Earth Mother to take up residence in Divided-Time, you will never set foot on Her again. Not only that, but you will never again encounter your biological brothers and sisters. And by the term, “biological brothers and sisters,” I refer to all the children of our wonderful planet.

By leaving Earth into Time you will be saying goodbye to us forever. You will be stepping out of progressive evolution. You will be stepping into the Space-Time void, also known as Purgatory, the antechamber of Hell. Life and death continue in the Space-Time Purgatory, but they follow a very different path. With every death and rebirth in Space-Time you devolve, going further and further from your mother planet, from your biological brothers and sisters, and from God.

So when Divided-Time/Space-Time - or whatever other name they assign to any Time-frame which is not Earth Time - is launched on our unsuspecting world, it will not be a scientific breakthrough, nor a new discovery. It is a cold, dark place that has been around as long as the universe has been around, which we are not made to live in. When you are lured to abandon our world and Time, search your hearts and remain with our Mother Earth, unafraid to die upon Her good soil.

Let no man rejoice over me, a widow, and forsaken of many, who for the sins of my children am left desolate; because they departed from the law of God. (Apocrypha, Bar 4:12)

For he hath brought a nation upon them from afar, a shameless nation, and of a strange language, who neither reverenced old man, nor pitied child. These have carried away the dear beloved children of the widow. Go your way, O my children, go your way: for I am left desolate...I will cry unto the Everlasting in my days. My delicate ones have gone rough ways, and were taken away as a flock caught of the enemies. (Apocrypha, Bar. 4:15-26)

Preparing To Remain With the Earth

(Dan 12:7, 10-13)And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and swear by him that liveth for ever that it shall be for a time, times, and an half...Many shall be purified, and made white, and tried; but the wicked shall do wickedly: and none of the wicked shall understand; but the wise shall understand. And from the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and the abomination that maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days (c. 3 ½ years). Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundred and thirty-five days (45 days more). But go thou thy way till the end be: for thou shalt rest, and stand in thy lot at the end of the days.

The above reference to “time, times, and an half ” describes three different Time structures: Time— what we have now with our Mother Earth, progressive, calendar time; Times—the full and complete knowledge and use of Time received in the Fifth World; and, an Half Time (Divided-Time/Space-Time)— the incomplete knowledge of “Time as direction”— the Timeless, Space-Time void.

The timetable quoted above indicates there will be less than four years to go when “the abomination that maketh desolate” is set up (use of Divided-Time). When man leaves our Earthly Time system, “there will be nobody left to tend to the fields,” “the streets of the cities will be silent,” and our Earth will be desolate as much of the populace (the “wave”) abandons the Earth into Time. “Standing in thy lot at the end of days” speaks of facing the consequences of our choices.

When the inhabitants of our Earth Mother disappear from the face of our world into the “new” Time, it will be a tragedy causing our Earth Mother to mourn the loss of Her children. It will be easy to choose the temptations of Space-Time, much harder to be among the few, the “drop,” who trust in our Earth, maintaining their covenants.

When it is “discovered” that Time is Direction, and “the abomination which makes desolate” is set up, God’s Laws will have been transgressed. A statute will have been changed (Time); and those that travel into Time to escape the Purification will have made void a covenant with God. The complete knowledge of Time (“Times”) is given to us by God upon walking the good road, living and dying on our home planet, finally receiving our eternal life in heaven with Her.

The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants thereof; because they have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance (Time), broken the everlasting covenant. (Isaiah 24:5)

There will be a “new order” setup which will seek to control the population and direct them into Space-Time, when it is prepared for use. People will receive the “mark of the beast.” This “mark” is how Space-Timers will, no doubt, be controlled or policed. They will receive a mark - a digital code on or under their flesh, such as the microchip (e.g. VeriChip, Digital Angel, or more advanced versions to come), implantable “personal locating devices” with GPS technology. Such devices have already been approved for use in some countries, and implanted in a few (for now) who have naively received them.

And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads: And that no man might buy and sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. (Rev. 13:16-17)

Revelation 13:18 proclaims that the “number of the beast” is six hundred threescore and six (666). The original Greek from which this number was translated, was “chi xi stigma” (chi=600, xi=60, stigma=6). Thayers Greek dictionary indicates that “stigma” derives from “stizy,” meaning “to stick or prick; a mark incised or punched (into) - for recognition of ownership.” The digital microchips, now being used, are injected (or pricked/incised) under the skin. The 666 reference clearly refers to to an incised mark that will be used for “recognition” (in the upcoming system). In the new system, this recognition-mark (chip) will be needed to buy, sell, etc. Note that a modern day definition of “stigma” is a mark of disgrace.

Those who reject the new order, holding fast to our Mother Earth, will no doubt form methods and strategies in order to resist. A good system for opposing the coming tyranny, spiritually based in nonviolence, was developed and used by Mohandas Gandhi in the early 20th century. Called Satyagraha, Gandhi applied civil-disobedience and non-cooperation as an active, provocative method of resistance. The history and basics of Satyagraha are provided in Appendix 6, along with a reference for further study. These methods help us faithfully hold fast to the Earth, assisting one another to stay true to our Creator.

Hell: Devolved To Live In Darkness

American Indian prophecies (such as on the Prophecy Rock) warn us to steer clear of those that chose the zig-zag path instead of our straight line Time. On the Hopi Prophecy Rock, these beings are depicted as having no necks joining their heads to their bodies. Many people take this neckless head drawing as a sign that these beings are emotionless, because their hearts are not connected to their heads, but elders say differently. They tell us it is because they lack the hormones produced by the thyroid gland (the thyroid gland is located in the neck).

Elders tell us that the neckless ones depicted on the upper road of the petroglyph are very different from us, biologically. They departed from God's Laws and were adapted to live away from the sun in darkness. For these unholy beings in Space-Time, lies are just a means to an end. They attempt to validate their lies by immersing them in the truth. They will say anything to lure people into joining them.

As discussed, these ungodly ones were once people like us who chose technology over evolution, making a grab at immortality in Space-Time. But it didn't work out as they wished. They extended their lifespans, but like all biological creatures they finally die. When they die they are not accepted by a mother planet, and are biologically adapted to live in the darkness of outer space.

Hence, references in some scriptures to being “cast out” to “outer darkness,” to “the deep,” or to the “pit of outer darkness,” among other names.

Those who choose extended life and technology over evolution become outcasts, finally needing to prey on others to sustain their lives. They know that when they die in Space-Time they will not receive newer and better bodies, as on Earth, but will devolve to a beastly form that cannot tolerate light. That is their reason for luring us there to replace those who defect: to sustain their lives by using us to replace their stale blood and withered organs. With this in mind, who would choose Space-Time over their Earth Mother and Her Time? My native father explains (extracted from Appendix I):

...The aliens, who will try to entice us to leave our Mother, have learned to manipulate Time; they can move around in Time....They can go backwards and forwards in Time, and in this way they can extend their lives. But however ancient they may be, they are not immortal. Their bodies age, although it takes longer. Even though they may look young and beautiful, by now they are very old, and their youthful appearance is superficial. Their internal organs are ancient and must be continually replaced. This is not what we want for our children and ourselves. It is not what I want. I want the incorruptible body of Homo maximus! I don't want to have my gut sliced open from time to time and my innards replaced. I want incorruptible, internal organs...

If we uproot ourselves from the Earth into Space-Time, we can lose all we have become, that is held in our Mother Earth

(Appendix 5). As long as we endure with the Earth, the death of our material body has no sting, because our individuality safely continues toward the Fifth World with Her. But we are forewarned that when we abandon the Earth into the forbidden Time, we tread a path where our souls can be lost. As Jesus warned:

...do not fear those who kill the body, but cannot kill the soul. But rather fear Him who is able to destroy both soul and body in Hell. (Mt 10:28)

American Indian legends call the ones adapted to live in darkness “red-eyes,” and “egg-layers,” because their eyes are evolved for night vision instead of daylight, and unlike mammals, they are cold blooded, reptilian. They don’t have children the way people (mammals) do, they lay eggs instead.

Those people who have devolved, following death in Space-Time, do not have the normal human hormones, such as our thyroid hormones, which include iodine molecules (to function properly the thyroid needs iodine). The thyroid gland acts as a thermostat to regulate body temperature - to prevent our blood from becoming too cold. The absence of the iodine hormone in the “egg layer’s” biochemistry means their normal state is what we call hypothyroidism, a low blood temperature and low metabolism. As garlic is iodine rich, the egg-layers are allergic to it to the point where it is poison to their systems. Thus, we can see a basis for humankind’s unconscious knowledge that vampires (said to live in the dark and need our blood) are afraid of garlic.

In the dark they dig through houses which they had marked for themselves in the daytime: they know not the light. For the morning is to them even as the shadow of death. (Job 24:16)

I am counted with them that go down into the pit. I am as a man who has no strength. Free among the dead like the slain that lie in the grave whom thou rememberest no more: and they are cut off from thy hand. Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit, in darkness, in the deep. (Psalm 88)

In the beginning of the bible (Genesis 1:28) we are given dominion (“radah”) over the earth (not the universe). And in Daniel 7:12 we lose our dominion:

As for the rest of the beasts, they had their dominion taken away: yet their lives were prolonged for a season and time.

The word “beasts” is misleading and does not communicate the intended meaning. The Aramaic word that has been interpreted as “beasts” is “cheyva,” from “chaya.” Both words refer to a category of man who has unnaturally prolonged life. In other words, a rebellious people who have extended their life spans beyond the “zeman” (“appointed time” from “zaman” also “appointed time/allotted time”). So this passage does not refer to a bizarre form of animal. It refers to humans who have tricked Nature into prolonging their life spans in Space-Time.

The next meaningful passage tells us about the ruler of these men with prolonged lives. These men (“cheyva” or “beasts”) are under a ruler who is also described as a “beast.” This world ruler negates God’s Law of real-calendar-Time (Daniel 7:25):

And he (the ruler) shall speak words against the most High, and shall wear out the saints of the most High, and decide to change time laws: and they (time laws) shall be given into his hand until a time and times and the splitting (dividing up) of time. cebar shena' zeman dath yehab `ad `iddan `iddan pelag `iddan” (intend change established time-law given hand space-time time time half time). (See Appendix 3)

I would ask you to consider this: since it is God the Father Almighty, the Ancient of Days, who established our existing Time system of calendar days, when the Time system changes who would be behind the change?

Concluding Thoughts, Fear Tactics and God's New Beginning

The sharing of knowledge concerning the birth of the Core is made, in part, so people can understand the naturalness of it, and therefore to have no fear as our Purification progresses. This is necessary because the extreme weather and geological changes our world is experiencing will soon be used to confuse and deceive us. Fear will be the psychology used to falsely persuade mankind that the Earth, and everything on Her, is going to be annihilated. These tactics have long been the method for dissuading those who might have spoken out from presenting the actual facts about the Earth's laboring, and birth of Her Core. The other argument sometimes used to silence others - that mankind is too naïve to grasp the truth - is a pure falsehood. Elders tell us that mankind is meant to know the whole truth of his Earth Mother, and his evolutionary program.

The use of fear will soon be used again, as, we are told, was used during the last purification, to push us into deserting the Earth. A tragic day will soon arrive when the ancient ones of Space-Time will use scientific pronouncements to strike terror in our hearts, in order to push us off the Earth to their Time-frame.

Search your hearts and endure with the Earth, no matter how many others mistakenly choose otherwise. Then you can say with feeling, “annuit coeptus.” Not “annuit coeptus” to a new world order that is, in reality, an ancient Space-Time world order dressed up, but “annuit coeptus” to God.

The words “Annuit Coeptus” that appear on American money are often wrongly interpreted as meaning “he has favored our undertakings.” It means no such thing. “annuit” is the word from which “annual” is derived, and means “yearly.” “Coeptus” (coepi/coepio) means beginning (from which the word “inception” is derived). The meaning of the term is “annual beginning,” in the same sense that the day of one’s birth is one’s annual (yearly/new) beginning, and is spoken to convey the message “happy birthday.”

Those who work in the light, serving the Great Spirit, will never direct us away from the Earth. They know we can only reach heaven by remaining with our world. That is a helpful test for recognizing those who serve our Creator, from those who work in the dark to exploit us.

When they begin announcing the ejection of the Core as an event that will annihilate everything on Earth, be assured that our Earth Mother is our biological Mother and has no intention of destroying us. The Earth will not fly into the sun bearing Her children, as the fearmongers may tell us to further their agenda. She will fly closer to the sun to become the next Morning Star. When you know the great event of Earth's birth is on the horizon, celebrate and pray: Annuit Coeptus Deus! God's new beginning - in heaven.

As mentioned in the book's introduction, it is best for us to "...enquire how the righteous shall be saved... rather than upon the darker matters." But for our own protection, the knowledge of Space-Time has been restored, so we can be prepared for those who would use our ignorance against us. As we move forward, let us refocus attention on all that is good and beautiful in creation, especially our Mother Earth.

Some Final Pointers

We are moving at a fixed velocity through space, and on a purposely determined path. There are two roads: one light and one dark; one natural, and one in opposition to Nature; one leading to progressive evolution, and the other to retrograde evolution. The name of the path of light is, "hold fast to the Earth that you have, and I shall give you the Morning Star." The name of the other path leading to outer darkness is apostasy, or "abandon the Earth and Her Time."

Our part is simple: do not embrace the change of Time to come; for though it will appear miraculous and wonderful, it is against all that is holy. Shun the dark spirits and their technology. Stay with our Earth Mother, living in the reality that we are accustomed to of the 24 hour day, the seven day week, the 12 month year. For this is the Great Spirit's reality, the natural Time formed by God to protect and perfect His children.

Mother Earth is the Great Goddess who gathered us to Her breast, sheltered us in Her caves, provided us with nourishment from Her body, and worked tirelessly towards our evolutionary improvement. Let us not abandon our Earth now that we stand on the very threshold of our perfection, when Her work on our behalf is so near completion. In our Earth Mother's hour of greatest need, let us prove ourselves to be loving and loyal children that will not abandon Her, but will advance with Her and reap the highest reward the universe has to offer.

We must be careful not to heed false teachers, some of whom look to the skies for their hope, leading their followers to look away from our world for their future salvations. Their hope is false. Those who descend from the skies in the final hours of this age, regardless of how they may appear, will be the dark spirits of Space-Time who will prey upon the false teachers and their deluded followers.

Whether these false teachers are misguided by their own mistaken beliefs, the misleading spirits they put their faith in, or are the dark spirits themselves seeking to entrap followers, do not heed their false and ruinous advice to leave our Mother Earth. Some of what they speak or write may seem wonderful, containing ideas confirmed by sources we mistakenly trust, but which treacherously lead us toward abandoning our mother world. Instead, let us keep our eyes down to the Earth for our hope and deliverance, not up to the skies to other worlds. We are called to be resolute, to be brave and immovable, facing the turmoil to come with our Mother Earth. Those who are steadfast and unmoved will be victorious, inheriting the Morning Star.

As hard as this message may be for some to accept, one proof of it will be when the events herein predicted come to pass. At that time send a voice, praying to recognize the truth from the deceptions. To find the truth we must be willing to humbly open our hearts and minds, however difficult that may be. If we cling too tightly to the imperfect understanding of our age, to false and misleading teachings, or to our own wishful thinking, we will be unable to receive what we truly need during the days ahead.

We are advised that to help awaken the world there will be a great warning sign seen in the sky and felt within, and a subsequent “miracle” witnessed by many in northern Spain to help restore our faith in God and love of one another. How the world responds to this sign of impending danger - with greater faith, peace, and love, or not - will affect the severity of the times that follow. If we remain unrepentant of our haughty ways - walking our own roads, we have been shown examples, and been warned by teachers, prophets, and seers throughout history, of the dire consequences. Let us wisely pay heed.

We are forewarned to prepare to live off the land when the time arrives, to have food and water supplies enough to allow us independence through a c. 3 year period, when food and water will be scarce. As an elder has suggested to help prepare us to live off the land during this period:

If every person will find a skillful guide to accompany them into a wild place, and also a desert place, allowing that guide to help them to learn how to live in such places, this would be valuable. It is useful to know how to make seawater good to drink; it is useful to know different ways to catch and store water, such as deep wells, rainwater, bottled water, and even how to bring rain.

During the days ahead, we have been reminded that it will be best to follow the dietary rules set forth in the bible long ago. These instructions tell us to replace animal meat with “every green herb.”

And God said: Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the Earth, and every tree, in which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat. And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the Earth, wherein there is life, I have given every green herb for meat: and it was so. (Ge. 1:29)

... For it is the life of all flesh; the blood of it is for the life thereof: therefore I said unto the children of Israel, Ye shall eat the blood of no manner of flesh: for the life of all flesh is the blood thereof... (Le. 10:13)

What of faith? Throughout the ages, we have been called to faithfully trust in God. Like Noah and Moses, we have been asked to accept things we cannot see, things beyond what our young minds can comprehend. We have been asked to rise above our fears and doubts, faithfully trusting in the wisdom provided to us, so that, by faith, we may worship God, honor our heritage, and complete the pattern of our evolution. We are counseled that, apart from faith, it is impossible to please our Creator well.

There are many voices surrounding us, proclaiming a myriad of ideas about the future. Among these voices is our Mother's, sending us the knowledge that we need. But only we can recognize and act upon it. One way to recognize something truthful is by what theologians call “self-authentication”: the inner confirmation, or authentication we feel that attests to the presence of truth. Listen to your hearts in quietude and peace, praying to be shown the holy from the unholy, that which takes us home from that which leads to darkness.

Be immovable from the Earth one more time, enduring faithfully through Her birth pangs, trusting that death has no sting for those who have lived within their covenants. Be watchful and consoled. When your choices arrive, remain within the land and laws the Great Spirit has created for us. Hold to your faith in the everlasting life promised to those who wisely choose our Earth, Nature, and God.

The last thought I would like to leave you with is to remember that what is presented in this book is NOT a message of doom and gloom, but one of great promise and joy! The events to come do not represent the end of our world by any means, but its renewal and glorification. If I have done a good job explaining the information being passed to you, you will understand that what is transpiring is a wonderful opportunity to realize the highest goal we have been striving toward for ages upon the Earth.

When a human mother is in labor, do we focus upon her birth pains, or the wonderful new life which follows? Of course, it is the life! In the same way, those who understand welcome this Purification Time, with all of the Earth’s labor-tribulations, as the long promised coming of paradise, an event to be faced with joyful anticipation rather than fear! Let us put our trust in the Earth, and those serving God who watch over us, as we cling tightly to the Earth. As promised in the Book of Psalms:

If you make the Most High your dwelling...then no harm will befall you, no disaster will come near your tent. (91:9-10)

You will not fear the terror of night, nor the arrow that flies by day, nor the pestilence that stalks in the darkness, nor the plague that destroys at midday. (91:5-6)...we will not fear, though the earth give way and the mountains fall into the heart of the sea, though its waters roar and foam and the mountains quake with their surging. (46:2-3)

For he will command his angels concerning you to guard you in all your ways... (91:11)

But that which ye have already hold fast till I come. And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations...And I will give him the morning star. (Rev. 25-26, 28)

There will be difficult challenges, and those who will try to deceive us. But if we face the future with faith in God and our Earth, unafraid to give up this life for the next, we will reach that exalted place promised to us by God and sought throughout the ages. For the greatest treasure is not gold, or silver, nor any other transitory possession, all of which pass away. Our greatest treasure lies waiting for us with the Earth in the place of the Morning Star, the storied place lying “over the rainbow.” Indeed, as an inspired story has told us, “there’s no place like home” - the revered home our world will soon become, where eternal life is given to Earth Mother’s faithful, immovable children.

Appendices

Appendix 1

Words Of A Native Mentor

On Departure From A Website

“Greetings my brothers and sisters,

Today I leave my last message here in this forum. It is in my heart to share the knowledge of native people with our brothers and sisters. I have not much Time to do this, because my remaining Time in this world is short. And so I will find another way to share what I know, and hope I can reach many people, and touch their hearts, and bring them to a better understanding of our Earth Mother.

When I refer to God I say “Him,” but I am equally comfortable with “Her.” In fact, I do not know which gender I use most. But one thing is very sure, when I say “God” I always refer to our Earth Mother, or to an aspect of Her. Life is one great aspect of Her; Land is another great aspect of Her; and Death is another great aspect of Her. She controls the Underworld; and She controls this Fourth World. When we were in the Third World, we were with Her, and thus it was She who controlled the Third World. When we go to the next World, which we call the Fifth World, this same Earth Mother, who has always nourished and supported us, will also be the controller of the Fifth World, but there will be a difference. She will release more control into our hands. Because in the Fifth World we will have the good hearts and the wise minds not to abuse our control.

We have different names for Earth Mother's different aspects: in Her aspect of Death, She is male; in her aspect of Land, She is our Mother, and She is female; in Her aspect as Life, She is Spirit, and She is Male. There are many aspects, but they are not different Gods. They are the all-powerful Earth Mother; and in my humble view, for whatever it may be worth, this is the case with all old religions.

Many native people do not like their belief system to be referred to as "religion," because it brings to mind the Christian missionaries, and all that they inflicted upon the "heathen" native people. But I do not have this problem. I am a religious man. My religion is very old and as valid as any other great religion. I want to leave in this forum the essence of my religion. If I were to brew it all down to its essence, what would I have in my hand? Evolution.

What is the essence of my religion? To serve my Earth Mother, who has given all to me. To serve Her we must honor Her, respect Her, and obey Her. To obey Her is the hardest part, we might say, because She appears to be silent. Therefore, how do we know what She wants from us? She is not silent! She is very eloquent. But She does not speak with the language of words, at least not to us. I am sure She does use words when She speaks with Her brother and sister Stars. But our ears are deaf to Her voice, just as we are deaf to other sounds, such as the dog whistle. There are many sounds our ears do not hear. Her voice is among the sounds we cannot hear. So She communicates with us through sign language. We call this sign language, "symbols." We have to train our senses and our minds to interpret Her sign language, just as if we are learning a foreign language.

We learn to understand Her symbols quickly, because once She sees we are trying to understand Her, She is overjoyed, and does all in Her power to help us. Symbols are natural to native people all the world over. It is our first language! Our native language takes second place to symbols. As we move through our lives, our senses and minds are always alert to symbols. We might be so absorbed in symbols that we cannot hear our brother calling to us in our native language!

Our dreams are very important. We shape our lives according to our dreams. We search our dreams for our Earth Mother's guidance and direction. One of the first lessons we learn in life is to pay attention to our dreams, and to learn to understand them. The course of my life has been governed by my dreams, and will continue in this way. I would be lost without my dreams. When I think back, it is through understanding my dreams that I learned to understand symbols. To read symbols we have to become a tracker - I think of symbols as being tracks, for which I look. Thus, I moved on to searching for symbols in my daily life, as well as my dreams. What a rich language! An all-encompassing language! One symbol has so many levels! One symbol can say so much more than one word!

Last night I dreamt I was pulling a cloth out from under autumn leaves. The cloth was heavy, and I soon noticed it was not simply a cloth; it was part of a dressing gown. And then I noticed (by the weight) that it was on a dead body. I did not pull more. I stopped. I noticed that by pulling I had cleared the leaves off two socked and slippers feet, male feet. I did not uncover the face of the male. I asked a man who was nearby to inform the police. With a heavy heart I went indoors.

This dream told me so much! I know only two men who wear socks, slippers and dressing gowns. The face was hidden from me, but by the weight of the body I can guess which man will die this Autumn, when the leaves are thick on the ground. I will be informed of his death in the morning of the following day. But if I keep alert, when I see the leaves accumulate on the ground this Autumn, I will receive a sign before he dies. This is important to me, because I will get a chance to say goodbye.

The first step in beginning to serve God is to be the best human being we can be. The second step is to look for Her words to us, and to respond in a good way to Her voice: “Yes, Mother, you call me? I stand alert! Show me a sign and I will do my best for you.” This second stage is an enlightened state of being. No need for a priest or a temple. In this second stage a man can communicate one-on-one with God.

We do not need to hear Her voice to know She wants us to honor all of the Earth and its Life. She is the giver of Life, of Spirit, and we must honor life wherever we find it. It is easy to honor life in our families and friends, even a terrible sinner can do this. We must honor life also in strangers and in our enemies; we must honor life even in those people who abuse that life, because Life itself is sacred, and that it is abused is terribly sad. Where we see life being abused, we can try to guide that person to a better understanding of life.

Respect and Honor are very important to native people. The respect and honor we earn from others, as well as the respect and honor we give to others. We respect and honor our God, all of the Earth, all life, and all death. We do not shun death; and if we have walked a good road we do not fear death, because death is the doorway to a new body, a better more evolved body, and a better life in the Fifth World. The Fifth World is where a good man can finally live in a peaceful world, where all men and women are brothers and sisters, living in perfect harmony with Nature.

But if we have not walked a good road, we do fear death: if our walk has not been good there will be no better more evolved body for us, and no peaceful Fifth World, at least not in our next life!

But even when we fear death, we, nonetheless, respect and honor death. We have the gift of life, because we are not strangers to death. We have lived and died before. The fact that we are still in this Fourth World means we have not yet perfected our actions and our service to Mother Earth.

We are still here in our imperfect bodies, and in this imperfect world, because we are still struggling to know Her, to serve Her, and to bring ourselves to as good as we can get, given our present physical limitations. Those who do not fulfill their potential return to this state of being (in the Fourth World); those who do fulfill their (full) potential move on to the Fifth World, which we recognize as the Morning Star.

Venus, the Morning Star, is very important to native people. The exact positioning of Venus is crucial to our ceremonies. We believe Venus “overlaps” with certain points on our Earth Mother. I heard an elder speaking a few days ago: “only one who is initiated can know about the perfected ancestors on the Morning Star.” This is very true! This is a great sacred matter. Native children cannot know about this until they are old enough to understand, and are first initiated. But I will say this: in a broad sense only, our perfected ancestors are our departed spirits who act as our guardians. They watch over us, they protect us, and they are also very concerned about our behavior.

When we say “they come in the clouds,” we mean exactly that. As I already said, we are not able to hear all sounds, neither are we able to perceive all colors. We use only a small part of our brains. If we cannot see and hear all things, then we must not scoff to hear a man say, “our perfected ancestors come in the clouds.” A man said to me, “this is the most difficult part of your belief system for me to accept.”

Strangely, this same man believes in UFO’s. So do I. But it was strange to hear him say it is difficult to accept that our ancestors on the Morning Star can go about in clouds. This is because I also heard this man say (a few months earlier): “I saw a UFO with my own eyes! It was in a cloud formation. One minute it was a cloud, and the next minute I clearly saw a brightly colored, rainbow-like, crystal space ship. I saw it for a few seconds before it merged with the cloud again!”

Maybe he saw the transport of our perfected ancestors from the Fifth World. One thing we can be very certain of, our ancestors probably do go around in fancy crystal space ships, but they will never invite us into their spacecraft. They will never entice us to leave our Earth Mother. They reached their own great state-of-being by living on our Earth Mother, and by dying on our Earth Mother! They did not run off in the spacecraft of aliens! They evolved to a higher state of being because they walked a good road, and died at the end of their time, and evolved into a better body and into the Fifth World.

I remember the words of a Catholic priest who tried to convert my father: “Jesus died for us.” The priest also said we must die to receive heaven. We cannot just climb a pearly staircase in these corrupt bodies, and ascend to heaven. We must first die, and then be born again (finally) in new, incorruptible bodies. Then this priest sighed deeply: “Oh how that term is misunderstood! A whole new religion has blossomed as “born again Christians.” But, to be born again, first we must die!”

My father said, “what difference does it make? The born again Christians also follow the teachings of your master, so in the end they won’t go wrong.” When I heard all of these words, I thought how similar this belief is to our own belief: “without death there is no door to The Fifth World.”

When I speak like this many people say, “of course we must die, we have no choice!” We believe we may face such a choice at End Time: live forever (or for very long times) in these corrupt bodies (in Space-Time), or die and evolve to perfect bodies (on Earth, in the Fifth World). We believe there are many aliens who inhabit our universe, and, as with people here in our own World, some are good, and some are bad. All the good aliens have died and evolved to a higher life form, a life form that can live closer to the sun. We cannot see them, but they are there. They always occupy the Morning Star in any solar system.

These good brothers and sisters know very well the rewards of the final human form. They know the peace that comes along with having the full use of the evolved human brain, and with hearing the full sound spectrum through the evolved human ear, and seeing the full color spectrum through the evolved human eye. They know the love and respect that comes with the wisdom of using every neuron in the evolved human brain. They would never deprive us of these great gifts of life and evolution. They would never entice us to leave our Earth Mother! Only by remaining with Her can we achieve the final step in our evolution.

Again, some may say, “we have no choice but to remain with Her!” We believe the choice will come. We believe that aliens will come and try to convince us to leave Her, and go with them. They will come when End Time is upon this World. We all know that End Time will be accompanied with devastation (the Earth’s birth pains), with tidal waves and earthquakes and volcanoes.

We believe that when this is happening the aliens will descend on our Earth Mother and use everything in their power to convince us we should leave with them: “Your planet is going to self-destruct! Come with us; we live in a beautiful World where there is only good health and peace, where there is no poverty, no hunger, no disease.” They may even stoop so low as to call their world heaven, The Fifth World, Paradise, and other names of glory which are used to describe the Morning Star.

But if we listen to them, if we go with them, we are assured of desolation. These terrible and ungodly aliens are ancient (by our earthly standards), and some of them have very beautiful bodies. But how did they get their beautiful bodies? How long can their bodies remain alive? Having stepped out of Nature and natural processes, having turned their backs on evolution, how do they sustain their lives?

We believe we have always been around, and that the bones the archaeologist digs up are the bones of our previous bodies. In other words, we were here from the beginning, evolving from the earliest forms, through all the primal forms of man to Homo sapiens: Homo erectus, Homo habilis, Neanderthal, Cro-Magnon, etc. We have walked in all those forms, and we have one more change ahead of us. I read a book by Carl G. Jung, where he calls our final form “Homo maximus.” This name feels good to me. I think he must have been inspired by Spirit when he realized this name. I believe it will stay with us.

My last caution: evolution is a fact; we can see the proof in fossils. Why would aliens (who have remained faithful to their Mother, and received the reward of evolving from Homo sapiens to Homo maximus) try to persuade their less evolved brothers and sisters to abandon their Mother, at the very Time running up to evolution (at Purification Time)? They would not!

End Time will not be a picnic. Death is not usually easy. But people are dying every day. Thousands of people die every day, and we don't panic and try to bolt into alien space ships! We accept this daily mass death of our brothers and sisters around the world as natural. We hope they have walked a good road, and that they will evolve to become Homo maximus. But when End Time is upon us, some of our brothers and sisters will panic, because it is unusual, because they have never - in their living memory - witnessed such mass destruction and death before. The aliens will gratefully open the doors to their space ships to every willing runner! Because they need us! We do not need them!

I wish I could be here at this time. I would do my best to stop as many brothers and sisters going with them as I could. But I believe I will end this life before End Time (arrives). Just as I believe many of my younger brothers and sisters will remain here and face End Time.

You will notice that I capitalize the "T" in "Time." Native people have an inherent respect of Time. We view Time differently than our Euro American brothers and sisters. In a way, Time is also a deity to us, because it is an aspect of our Earth Mother. The aliens, who will try to entice us to leave our Mother, have learned to manipulate Time; they can move around in Time. This probably sounds as ridiculous as saying our perfected ancestors come in clouds, but it is true. They can go backwards and forwards in Time, and in this way they can extend their lives.

But however ancient they may be, they are not immortal. Their bodies age, although it takes longer. Even though they may look young and beautiful, by now they are very old, and their youthful appearance is superficial. Their internal organs are ancient and must be continually replaced. This is not what we want for our children and ourselves. It is not what I want. I want the incorruptible body of Homo maximus! I don't want to have my gut sliced open from time to time and my innards replaced. I want incorruptible internal organs.

In the Morning Star we are given the gift of Time. We are wise enough and responsible enough to receive the full knowledge of Time, and not to abuse it. In the Fifth World we will also be able to go backwards and forwards in Time, or remain in a perpetual present Time. But we will not have stolen this great gift ahead of evolution, ahead of God's Will. We will have earned this with our loyalty and courage.

My last words: perhaps the greatest difference between native and other religions is this: we believe in God and evolution. We believe God's greatest work is through evolution. God is the divine Artist; evolution is the Divine Art. Walk the good road my brothers and sisters, and we will surely meet up in the next World!"

Appendix Z

Earth Mother

A deep study into our names reveals that we are all a part of our dearly beloved Earth Mother, who has blessed us by bestowing on us names which can be traced right back to Her source. Thousands of feminine names are attributed to our Mother Earth. The continents Asia, Africa, Europe, and India were named after our Earth Mother. Countries also bear the names of the Earth: Libya, Lydia, Russia, Anatolia, Latium, Holland, China, Ionia, Akkad, Chaldea, Scotland, and Ireland are but a few of the names of the Earth Mother. American Indians still relate how all of creation emerged from “Earth’s Yonic Womb.” Okee-Maakee-Quid, and P.M. Campbell, used almost the same words:

As with a child being born from its mother, the Place of Emergence is the sacred womb of the Earth Mother.

As the Greek Virgin “Kore” the Earth Heart/Soul is the inner Soul-Daughter of Demeter, which literally translates into “Earth Mother.” Kore is a name so ancient and widespread it is known to have been one of the earliest designations of the World Shakti (Female Spirit). Shekinah is the “Great Queen of Phantoms” who is identical with Shakti, and the Central Asian goddess Macha Alla, Mother of life, death, and rebirth.

Shekinah stands for existence in the Earth Mother’s world, which is an eternal living flux wherein all things rise and disappear again in endless cycles. Shekinah is the “Crone” who governs death as she rules over life. As Akka, Shekinah was the “water-drawer” who generated birth out of the primal deep of her rivers, as the feminine prototype of Aquarius. Shekinah was also known as Acco or Acca, literally, “the Earth who creates.”

To Lapps and Finns the Earth Mother was Mader-Akka (Mother Akka), to Romans she was Acca Larentia, mother of the Lares, ancestral spirits of the pre-Roman Latium. As the divine midwife, the Earth Mother helped Rhea Silvia give birth to Romulus and Remus, the founders of Rome, by drawing the twins out of their floating baskets on the river Tiber. As Akka, she drew Sargon out of his floating basket on the river Tigris, just as Pharaoh’s daughter drew Moses out of his floating basket on the river Nile. Rivers are still considered to be Earth Mother’s amniotic fluid, or her “holy waters,” her “primal deep,” wherein all life originated.

When Hindus entrust their dead to the Ganges, they are returning them to the amniotic fluid of the Earth Mother in anticipation of rebirth through the womb of a human mother. The amniotic fluid surrounding a fetus in the womb is still considered sacred holy water by many tribes. The amniotic fluid is caught, and carefully retained for ceremonial use, by tribes who consider it identical to the antediluvian water found in the primordial rivers, when Earth Mother was born of Sun Father.

Earth Heart

Hermes, born of the Virgin Maia (pronounced Maya) was a universal Indo-European God, and identical to Buddha born of the same Virgin Maya in India. The Mahanirvanatantra said that Buddha was “The Son of the Moon,” making him identical with Mercury (Hermes). “The Son of the Moon” (literally “The Son of Man”) is a title of Christ which is used in modern times.

Hermes divinity is inseparable from the Core/Mystery Egg. Ovid said Hermes married the Goddess Car/Kore at an underground sacred fountain. Neoplatonic philosophers called Hermes the “Logos,” or “Word of Aphrodite made flesh.” Hymns addressed Hermes as “Lord of creation, Thou All Hidden in the One, Thou art the Light of my Spirit.” Hermes is the “God within the God” sought by religious philosophers of the Gnostic period—the hidden Mystery Egg within the Earth Mother.

Throughout the Greco-Roman world, Hermes Spirit protected crossroads in the form of herms (stone or iron phalli breaking through the soil), indicating that the energy to inseminate seeds in the Earth Mother is contained in Her Center. The paradoxical Father/Son theme to the Egg Mysteries (and all Consort/Son themes) can be seen thusly: the Egg inside the Womb of Earth is (as an Egg) Her young, and when born will be her Aeon (Her offspring). However, this very same Core-Egg inseminates all seeds planted within Her (including humankind when buried in Her “grave/grove”) and as such, the God at Her Center is Her hidden mate.

In Egypt, the maternal force or energy of the Earth Mother, the Ma-Nu, was the “All Seeing Eye” in the Earth belly. The hieroglyph for the Ab was a dancing figure, and as a verb it meant “to dance the mystic Dance of Life,” the (Earth’s) Heart beat. So vital was the Earth Mother heartbeat in Oriental religions, that the Tantric sages held the Earth Heart to be the center of the universe. This center, Chidambaram, was the place where Shiva danced the “Rhythm of Life.”

The Indian sages said sound (nada) is made manifest in the Earth’s Heartbeat. When the yogi hears the Nada he is listening to the heartbeat of the Absolute. The concept of the Earth’s Heart Dance was upheld in early Gnostic Christianity, when Christ was equated with Shiva, the “dancer within.” In the Acts of John, Christ said to his disciples:

To the universe belongs the dancer. He who does not dance does not know what happens. If you follow my dance, see yourself in me who am speaking. You who dance, consider what I do, for yours is this passion of Man which I am to suffer.

The dancing Earth Heart evolved into the Sacred Heart of Christ’s mother in the late 17th century, with the church claiming that the Sacred Heart began with the vision of St. Margaret Marie Alacoque (1675). But the concept of the divine Earth Heart-Soul at the Core of the Earth, “Osiris The Heart of His Mother,” and “Shiva Sacred Heart,” thrived long before Christianity.

The human Ab was considered by the Egyptians to be a splinter of the Earth’s Ab. In Egyptian worship, the Ab was the essence of Mother Earth, and as such it was a spark of her divinity in humankind. This divine spark did not, however, make man divine; rather it gave man the opportunity to attain to a state of perfection. Man’s purpose was to bring his entire being into the same state of perfection as the inner divine spark given by his Goddess Mother (at-onement). Without her “essence” he would be lost in sin.

After death the human Ab would descend to the Judgement Hall where the Earth, in her rebirth aspect of Hathor, would balance the human Ab against her own Ab, which the Egyptians called the “Feather of Truth.” The circumstances of the next life were contingent upon the weight (state of perfection/purity) of the human Ab.

The Cowrie shell, still used as a sacred amulet, takes its name from Kauri, a cognate of Kore, the Earth Core-Heart. Worldwide, people still regard the Cowrie shell as a symbol of the divine Earth womb. The shells are carried in small pouches, or worn on the body to convey both birth and rebirth. Egyptians were one of many races who decorated sarcophagi with Cowrie shells as birth and rebirth charms.

Cowries are still prized throughout the East for their regenerative powers. They are valued in India as amulets to protect against the evil (right) eye. Moslem women wear Cowrie shells (as a symbol of the Earth Womb) during pregnancy, to ensure a safe delivery. In Japan, cowries are kept in drawers and cupboards around the house for luck. Worldwide, gypsies still value Cowrie shells above all other protective amulets. Christian Sudanese carry a strip of leather, stamped with the crucifix, and strung with nine Cowrie shells, as an amulet of rebirth. In the east the “Heart of Mother Earth” was worshipped everywhere. She was called Artemis Caryatis, mother of the Caryatides of the Laconian temple of Caryae.

Romans called the Cowrie shell matriculus (little matrix), symbol of Alma Mater (Soul Mother). Earth Mother is the great Teacher Priestess, and students still matriculate. The Romans called the Cowrie shell “porcella” (little sow), because the Cowrie stood for the Goddess Earth as the Great Sow, as did Demeter, Astarte, Ceres, Freya, Cerridwen, etc. From “porcella” came the word “porcelain,” because porcelain resembles the white glazed surface of the shell.

Worship of Kore, the Earth Heart, flourished in Alexandria in the 4th century A.D. Her festival, the Koreion, celebrated on January 6th, was assimilated into Christianity as the feast of Epiphany. Kore’s festival, Koreion, celebrated the birth of the Aeon, the New Year God to Earth Mother. During Koreion, a naked figure of Earth Mother was carried seven times around the temple (the seven orbits to our present Fourth World), decorated with gold stars, while the priest announced that Earth Mother had delivered her Holy Infant, Aeon (identical to Kore). Mount Carmel, one of the oldest shrines in Israel, is another combination word for the Virgin daughter and her Earth Mother.

creation myths are a symbolic view of birth from the Earth Heart/Womb. Conditions before creation describe the uterine environment of Earth Mother's womb: darkness, liquid, churning movement, an eternal flux of molten rock-blood — Kauri's Ocean of hot birthing iron-blood.

In Hinduism, as in most American Indian creation myths, Earth Mother is said to have been birthed by Sun Father "When there was no life, when darkness was enveloped in darkness, then the Earth Mother, Maha Kali, the Great Power, was one with Maha Kala, the Absolute who resides at the Center as the sun."

The Hebrew bible says: "darkness was upon the face of the Deep," and "The Deep" was Tehom, the Earth Womb. Tehom is derived from Tiamat, the Babylonian name of the primordial Earth.

In Egypt, primordial Earth was "Temu, Dark Mother of the Abyss." In the bible, as in creation myths, the beginning of the world is signaled by the coming of light. Romans called Earth Mother Juno Lucina: the Creatrix who brought light to the world.

Hymn of the Mother of all Living

In the following excerpt from the Nag Hammadi, Gnostic texts (the untitled text on the origins of the world), Jesus quotes Eve, Earth "Mother of all living," cognate with India's Ieva Jaganmata

(literally “Eve Mother of all living”). The Earth, the Ultimate Being, proclaims Herself to be: pregnant Mother of the Mystery Egg, and yet the Egg (part of my mother); wife of the Egg, yet also its midwife; Daughter of Her Father, yet also His Mother. Indeed, the “Hymn of The Mother of all Living” transports us beyond the simplistic “duality” of male and female, beyond the trinity of father, mother, and child, to the “unity,” the “ultimate,” the “all in one.”

“She said: It is I (Kore) who am the part of my mother; and it is I (Earth) who am the mother. It is I (Earth) who am the wife; it is I (Kore) who am the virgin. It is I who am pregnant; it is I who am the midwife. It is I who am the one that comforts pains of travail. It is my husband who bore me; and it is I who am his mother. And it is he who is my father and my lord. It is he who is my force; What he desires, he says with reason. I am in the process of becoming; yet I have borne a man as lord...”

“I am in the process of becoming.” So are the “immovable race,” our Earth, and ourselves in the process of becoming.

Appendix 3

Time

“Shem Yowm”: My Name is Day
`abar beriyth Yehovah `elohiym `alah
Yehovah `elohiym karath yown.
(Deuteronomy 29:12)

The above is one of several passages that refer to the “Covent of Yowm.” Yowm is a vital word to understand. Yowm means “Time” and “Day.” And “Yowm” is one of God’s names. In Genesis 1:5 “yowm” means “day”; in Genesis 4:3 it means “Time”; and where “shem” and “yowm” appear together as “shem yowm,” it translates as “my name is Day.” The words appear together in Deuteronomy 10:8 : “...sharath barak shem yowm.” Only one entity says “shem yowm,” and that is God.

Time is the progressive passage of events that takes one from the cradle to the grave. There are other definitions of Time, two of these being “gravity” and “electromagnetism”; which is why Time ceases to exist as we reach a point outside of our Earth’s gravity and electromagnetic field. The Time we live in on Earth (calendar Time) was established by God and is set down in Genesis. In fact, the first chapter of the Bible is devoted to the simultaneous creation of life and Time. If you doubt this, please read Genesis again taking note that God created life during the progressive Time of the seven-day week. He rested on the seventh day.

(Genesis 1:1) In the beginning God created heaven and the Earth.

(Genesis 1:2) And the Earth was without form and void and darkness was upon the face of the deep and the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

(Genesis 1:3) And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.

(Genesis 1:4) And God saw the light that it was good and God divided the light from the darkness.

(Genesis 1:5) And God called the light Day and the darkness He called Night. And the evening and the morning were the first day.

Let there be no doubt that God established the 24 hour day. From this point God remains within the structure of Real Time, until at the end of Genesis, Chapter one, we see the following:

(Genesis 1:31) And God saw everything that He had made and behold it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

It is clearly shown that God created the Time framework That we use. And He rested on the seventh day.

(Genesis 2:2) And on the seventh day God ended His work which He had made; and He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had made.

(Genesis 2:3) And God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it because in it He had rested from all His work which God created and made.

How often the Bible is opened and read without an understanding of these important first verses. It is vital that we respect the “Covenant of Time” that we have with the Great Spirit. That covenant prohibits us from going backward or forward in Time.

You will notice that the word “space” is not used very often in the Holy Bible, and when it is, it is not used in the common way. The world has only recently learned to associate “space” with “Time.” Time occurs 620 times in 563 verses, while the word “space” occurs only 27 times in 26 verses. If you find these verses in the Holy Bible, you will notice that “space” is most often used to indicate “Time.”

(Gen 29:14) And Laban said to him, Surely thou art my bone and my flesh. And he abode with him the space of a month.

(Lev 25:8) And thou shalt number seven sabbaths of years unto thee, seven times seven years; and the space of the seven sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years.

(Lev 25:30) And if it be not redeemed within the space of a full year, then the house that is in the walled city shall be established for ever to him that bought it throughout his generations: it shall not go out in the jubile.

Though it has gone mostly unnoticed, the Holy Bible measures space, as Time. Here space is measured in cubits:

(Job 3:4) Yet there shall be a space between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure.

In the normal context of the following sentence, modern mankind would replace the word “space” with the word “Time”: (Ezra 9:8) “...And now for a little space grace hath been (shewed) from the LORD our God...”

From Genesis, we can see that “Time,” as we understand it, has been established by God. The system should not change.

“..While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease...” (Gen 8:22)

Appendix 4

Illuminating Scripture

On Man Being Created in the Image of God

“God created man in His Image.” How these words have been misinterpreted by those that would elevate themselves to the status of their Creator, the Earth Mother and Her Heart/Core! “Imago” and “imaginatio” from which “image” and “imagination” are derived, mean “a mental image,” not “similar to.” God created man from a thought, a mental image formed in His Mind. “In His Image He created them.”

Over time the word “imago” or “image” has been distorted until it has taken on the meaning of “likeness” or “similarity.” “God created man in His image.” Even the superficial meaning is very clear: God created man in His imagination, or, God created man from a mental thought.

More accurately, God created man from an idea in His mind. Mankind’s appearance originated as an idea formed in the Earth’s Mind/Soul/Ab. God created us from an image in His mind, along with all the other “ideas” God used to create things in the material world. The “Ab,” or the “idea” (“idea” translates literally into “Inner God”), is “World Soul” or “Earth Soul,” which thought mankind into being. Thus, mankind is not a God look-alike. Instead, we summarize/epitomize/condense God thoughts. We are His thoughts made flesh.

His thought, or His idea, was formed in His Mind, and from this idea we manifested/came into existence. Keeping in mind that the female gender is always attributed to Earth

Mother, while the male gender is attributed to the inner (Core) Mind/Soul, the male, “imago,” formed an “idea” (literally God within) of mankind. God’s “idea” gained shape/form/substance out of the material body of the female Maya (Materia) Earth Mother.

The Mayan creation story, as preserved in the Popul Vuh, relates how God’s thoughts gave rise to the Earth as a home for perfecting humankind (edited Tedlock translation):

...And so Heart-of-Sky thinks,
“Who is there to speak my name?
Who is there to praise me?
How shall I make it dawn?”
Heart-of-Sky only says the word,
“Earth,”
and the earth rises,
like a mist from the sea.
He only thinks of it,
and there it is.
He thinks of mountains,
and great mountains come.
He thinks of trees,
and trees grow on the land...

Mankind has become lost in his search to identify himself (not WITH but) AS his Creator in his quest to bring himself to perfection. Unable to bring himself to perfection, man toys with the idea that he is a deity, or worse, that he is the one and only Deity! As long as he focuses upon his own divinity, man cannot achieve his perfection. To think that he is God, rather than to “at-one” with the spark of God within, is a colossal trick of the ego. I use the term “ego” in the sense, “arrogant self.”

Some people have said that man is on Earth primarily to find God. As it turns out we don’t have to look very far! She’s everywhere! Other people say we are also here to manifest the divinity that is already within us. The word “manifest” is derived from the old form “manifestus,” “man in flesh,” or more accurately, “moon in flesh.” From festus “in the flesh,” we go to “festive” (festival and feast celebratory meal belonging to the holidays). “Holidays” literally means “holy days,” while “days” comes to us from the Aryan “devi” or “deva” which means “deity,” or “deus,” “God.”

Thus, “manifest” means “to feast and celebrate the realization of God’s (Manu’s) idea which He formed in His mind, and was made corporeal by Her (Earth’s) body. In other words: let us celebrate their “idea” which brought us into being as their “moon children, man kinder, mankind.”

Pointing The “Arrow” Back To heaven

The Earthen Grave To heaven

The Hell of Outer Darkness

Genesis 1:1 has been offered up to the world as: “In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.” Elders tell us that this has been incorrectly translated which has reversed where heaven and Hell are to be found. Let us look at the first error, where the word for “air” has been mistranslated as “heaven.”

(Genesis 1:1) re’shiyth ‘elohiym bara’ shamayim ‘eth ‘erets: first God birthed air then land. How are we to reconcile heaven, the land where we go after we die, with “air”? Well, of course, we can't. So we are left with no idea where or what heaven is. This first misrepresentation of "air," as heaven, has caused great confusion.

And it gets worse, because from this point on "shamayim" (air) is continually misrepresented as "the starry skies," "the vast expanse of heaven," "the open firmament of heaven," and so forth. By representing shamayim "air," as "heaven," it would seem that "the starry skies" (outer space) is the "heaven" where man goes after death.

In Genesis 1:30 "shamayim" (air) has been translated as "open firmament of heaven":

God said, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl may fly above the face of the earth in the open firmament of heaven. Genesis 1:30 should read:

...and fowl may fly above the face of earth in the open expanse of air. Face (paniyem) expanse (raqiya) air (shamayim).

And again, Genesis 1:26:

... let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air ...

Not "the fowl of the starry sky!" Since "shamayim" (air) has been misrepresented as "the starry sky," many people have come to think of "outer space" as "heaven," which it is not. "Outer space" is the place of exile for those devolved to live in this cold, outer darkness— a true Hell.

This mistake serves to confuse us hugely. For whereas shamayim” is merely “air,” “outer space” is “tachtiy bowr machshak metsolah”: “dark bottomless depths,” “pit of outer darkness,” “dungeon of outer darkness” or “deep dungeon,” etc.

It’s as though someone had taken the arrow that was pointing to heaven and purposely turned it to point to Hell. Indeed, Hell has come to be represented as “sheol,” our grave in the Earth from whence we actually rise to finally enter heaven, the opposite of the truth!

It has been almost impossible to overcome the influence of this misdirected “arrow,” to the end that millions of people still fear death and the grave as going down toward Hell, while going up into space seems heavenly. So confused, what would people do when offered a chance to prolong their lives for a thousand years, or even (falsely) to overcome death? Before anyone opts for cold, dark, outer space and the false promises of Space-Time, they should remember the examples of those who have taught us not to fear death:

He too shared in their humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death, that is the devil, and free those who all their lives were held in slavery by their fear of death. (Hebrews 2:14-15)

Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it. (Luke 17:33)

The Steadfast, Immovable Race

The following is from the Apocryphon of John, devoted to those staunch souls who will endure all that is foretold of the end to come, those living pure lives who will remain steadfast and unmoved from our Mother Earth.

And I (John) said to the savior, “Lord, will all the souls then be brought safely (closer) to the pure light that shines above?” He answered and said to me, “Great things have arisen in your mind, for it is difficult to explain them to others except to those who are from the immovable race. Those on whom the Spirit of life will descend will be perfected and be worthy of the greatness and be purified from all wickedness and involvement in evil. They have no other care than their incorruption (self-perfection) alone, to which they direct their attention from here on, without anger or envy or jealousy or desire and greed of anything. They are not affected by anything except the state of being in the flesh alone, which they bear while looking expectantly for the time when they will be met by their receiver. Such then are those who are worthy of the imperishable eternal life and the calling to the pure light. For they endure everything that is to come and bear up under everything that is to come, that they may not be moved, but that they may finish the good fight and inherit eternal life.

Appendix 5

Rebirth And Karma

Rebirth: Replanted In The Earth

The seed is the vegetable equivalent of a fertilized egg. The Earth acts as the seed's womb. Development begins once the seed is planted in the Earth. In mammals, the fertilized egg must be planted in the womb of a female for development. Man reproduces by means of sex cells. Elders explain that the Earth Mother reproduces Her creations by means of any one of the other body cells, containing the information stored in the DNA of the nucleus of the cell. While it is taken for granted that the burial of a seemingly lifeless seed will lead to the development of a plant, when man plants an equally seemingly lifeless person in the ground/grave it is considered a great tragedy.

Solemn pallbearers carry the human seed as though they were conveying it to the outskirts of the solar system. Relatives clad in black are filled with despair at every muffled word of the last rites. The human seed, consigned to the Earth, is bitterly mourned. Far from having the atmosphere of a garden, full of the promise of a fruitful new season, a graveyard has an atmosphere of finality, as though a hidden hand which condemns humanity to eternal oblivion, has reached out and snatched for itself a struggling victim.

A cemetery saddens us because it is the only place in the world in which we do not meet our dead again. (Francois Mauriac)

Shrinking away from death is something unhealthy and abnormal which robs the second half of life of its purpose.
(Carl Jung)

When we bury a seed in the ground we can later see the plant growing over the burial place. By observing the growth of a plant our eyes provide testimony that the seed is not wiped out-of-existence.

We do not see Nature with our eyes, but with our understanding and our hearts. (William Hazlitt)

When we return to a graveyard a few weeks after the planting, we do not see our planted friend standing young and vigorous above the soil where we planted him. Mother Earth reproduces man using information stored in the DNA of his planted body. Our individuality, our identity or soul, that which makes us uniquely who we are, consists of information in the form of energy, and it is planted with us in the soil.

Sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave, like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams. (William Cullen Bryant)

Man brings with him at birth the ground-plan of his Nature. (Carl Jung)

We cannot blame death for disease and suffering. Death must come to take us; we must not go to meet Death. If we make the decision to go to meet Death, Life (the other face of Death) will return us to this cycle. “Cycle” means life with all the same problems which we tried to escape with our suicide. We are not Death, only Death is Death, and nobody can play “I am Death.” Life and Death know each other very well and work together.

Life: “This poor person is suffering in this world”

Death: “What have you done to help her?”

Life: “I have tried everything I can think of, but there is no way to end her suffering.”

Death: “I will take her.”

Life: “Good! And when you return her to me I will improve her circumstances!”

Karma

Karma is the law of action and reaction. An action which takes place in this life can result in either a reaction which takes place in this life, or a reaction which is carried over to the next life. This is what is meant in scripture by “...cast thy bread upon the water and after many days it shall be returned to you...”

As natives understand it, and as Hindus understand it, karma is not a system of punishment; karma is a system of learning through experience. The learning experience usually involves suffering, and for this reason karma is sometimes thought of as a system of punishment. Suffering is the fastest and most effective teacher, whether it is emotional or physical. This is referred to in scripture by:

If you had known how to suffer, you would have overcome suffering.

Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

For example, when a man performs a “wrong” action he is certain to be placed in a position, in this life or his next, where he will be the recipient of the same “wrong” action. The purpose of karma is to prevent the same “wrong” action from being repeated in future lives, and the method is simple and certain: if in one life, a man inflicts hunger on others through his own greed, in his next life, hunger will be inflicted on him through the greed of others.

People are generally unable to improve themselves by means of a few “bad” experiences stored in conscious memory: a thief with a vivid memory of imprisonment is likely to steal again; a child who is caught in a lie is likely to lie again. The events of one life are not relied upon to bring about improvements in man. Instead, the accumulation of a person’s experiences, taken from all of his/her lives, guide people instinctively. We are not the body which we inhabit in any one life. We are the sum of all of our experiences and all of our learning. We are our souls.

As explained, karma does not rely on memory. It is effective even though a person has no memory of his actions in his/her past lives. The purpose of karma is to improve a person’s behavior through his natural reactions. Memory of wrong actions seldom improves a person’s natural reactions (and Nature does not want people to remember their past lives at this point in their migrations/ evolution).

Memories of our past lives are stored in our DNA. Genes are responsible for more than eye color, skin color, etc. A great deal of the data stored in our DNA molecules was gathered during previous life experiences, and dictates our instinctual behavior.

Appendix 6

Satyagraha – Nonviolent Resistance

Mohandas “Mahatma” Gandhi taught us a now proven method for nonviolently fighting against injustice and tyranny, using civil disobedience and non-cooperation as its primary strategies. These strategies are available to us today to resist those who would steal our God given rights to be free, and to pursue our destinies upon the Earth. This short discussion of Satyagraha is put here for those wishing to understand the methods and power of nonviolent resistance.

Satyagraha

Gandhi introduced a new, nonviolent method for fighting injustice, and for our rights and freedoms, which he developed and first used in the Indian quest for independence. Actually, his ideas arose from his study of other religions, Thoreau’s ideas as presented in his Civil Disobedience, together with Tolstoy’s ideas of nonresistance to evil (Gandhi and Tolstoy corresponded). So, it might be said that these two had a psychic unity, which later could include Reverend Martin Luther King. Although one could argue different reasons for violence in the world, Gandhi saw eight blunders, any one of which was a root cause:

1) wealth without work; 2) pleasure without conscience; 3) knowledge without character; 4) commerce without morality; 5) success without humanity; 6) worship without sacrifice; 7) politics without principles; and 8) rights without responsibilities¹.

When Gandhi first embarked upon his campaign for Indian independence very few people fully understood its power or expected it to succeed as it did. When Margaret Bourke-White asked Gandhi if he thought that his methods could work against someone like Hitler, he replied that he thought it could, but not without defeats and great pain (as in any war). Many did not understand the basis of the power within Gandhi's method (Satyagraha) then, but it has subsequently been used to varying degree and scale in the American civil rights movement, and other places where nonviolent, civil disobedience, and non-cooperation have been employed as a means of resistive protest for just change. I do not believe that people yet appreciate how Satyagraha can be applied in place of violent warfare, for a more permanent peace.

The soul and power of Gandhi's movement - an applied moral Philosophy- is active, provocative, nonviolent resistance (noncooperation, civil disobedience), the opposite pole to passive resistance. This type of resistance finds its strength not in brute force, but in the qualities of nonviolence, truth, and sacrifice. This threefold activity is expressed in the term "satyagraha." The nonviolent resistance of a satyagrahi requires courage and sacrifice (even unto death) in its application, the same as any soldier. It is not for the irresolute or cowardly. As Gandhi wrote:

...Strength does not come from physical capacity. It comes from an indomitable will. Nonviolence does not mean meek submission to the will of the evil-doer, but the putting of one's whole soul against the will of the tyrant. Working under this law of our being, it is possible for a single individual to defy the whole might of an unjust empire, and lay the foundation for that empire's fall or its regeneration...²

Gandhi was looking for a new term to express the idea of an active force, to replace the idea of passive resistance, as used in the Suffragette movement. A contest was held to find such a term, and the term “satyagraha” was the winner: satya = truth; graham = an earnest search¹. Therefore, satyagraha is “an earnest seeking for the truth,” part of an ongoing process between two parties conflicted in the search.

Gandhi believed the only way one could know if you are right when exploring the truth, was to be truthful in thought, speech, and action. The question is: how to oppose injustice and tyranny without being part of its underlying causes of fear, hatred, and violence? For Gandhi, the solution lies in embodying the opposite, spiritually based qualities in a nonviolent warrior: the satyagrahi.

As given earlier: embodied in the term “satyagraha” are three cornerstone concepts which underly Gandhi’s spiritual philosophy: 1) ahimsa; 2) satya; and, 3) tapasya¹.

“Ahimsa” means harmlessness, but much more than an absence or negation of violence, it meant for Gandhi, and satyagraha, nonviolence as a positive state of love, with no will to do harm: a “love-spell” where the other is loved independent of what they do. Within the view of ahimsa, violence not only causes harm to others, but also to those who perform it. As Gandhi reminded us: “an eye for an eye only makes the whole world blind.”²

The second cornerstone of satyagraha is “satya,” truth. “Satya,” as understood by Gandhi, is not physical force, but a “spiritual truth-force,” a soul-force whose meaning is glimpsed in his Hindu prayer:

...From untruth, lead me to truth; from darkness lead me to light; from death, lead me to immortality..²

For Gandhi satyagraha is pure truth-force the very substance of the soul. Nonviolence is the supreme duty (ahimsa paramo Dharma). In its dormant state this soul-power is nonviolence, in its waking state it's love³. Of this spiritual force and its use Gandhi explained:

...The soul is informed with knowledge. In it burns the flame of love. If someone gives us pain through ignorance, we shall win him through love...³

The power of this truth-force lies in its moral-spiritual underpinnings that connect both sides of those in conflict. As the Reverend Martin Luther King wrote in his Letter From Birmingham Jail (applying satyagraha in his fight for civil rights): "...the means we use must be as pure as the ends we seek..."³

The final component of satyagraha is "tapasya," or sacrifice, which is used in conjunction with ahimsa and satya. "Tapasya" is self-suffering, suffering taken on oneself rather than inflicting it upon others, to take the blows of others but never to give them. This is very much as Jesus taught in "turning the other cheek." From a spiritual perspective, such actions can bring results by taking the wrongs of others onto oneself (as Jesus is said to have done in making sacrifice of his life). From a psychological viewpoint such actions can illicit feelings of sympathy and compassion in others.

One example of the latter case occurred in Birmingham, Alabama in the 1960's, when mostly black civil rights protesters, guided by King's use of Satyagraha, faced the notoriously vicious Police Commissioner Eugene "Bull" Connors. According to author Robert Holmes³, the nonviolent marchers knelt down at the feet of the police, singing, praying, and showing their willingness to accept being beaten, as Connors urged his police to beat and hose them down. Instead, moved by the praying, peaceful satyagrahi, the police rejected Connors instructions failing to act violently in any way. A special feeling seemed to take hold of the police, which forbade them from doing harm (Holmes reports that some of the police were seen to have tears in their eyes)³. This is tapasya and satya in action.

What is it like to be a nonviolent warrior, ready to die as other soldiers in the cause of justice and freedom, but not to kill or otherwise harm? Mohandas Gandhi gave the world a practical demonstration of satyagraha in answer to this question: peaceful warriors, suffering and dying like other soldiers, but, ideally, without hatred or the desire to punish.

As Gandhi wrote:

The way of truth and love has always won. There have been tyrants and murderers, and for a time they can seem invincible, but in the end they always fall, think of it, always.⁴

For a more thorough discussion of the history and methods of nonviolent resistance, it is recommended to read Nonviolence In Theory and Practice, by Robert L. Holmes. (see Footnotes)

Note: Satyagraha is a good foundation for withstanding the iniquity of Purification Time. But during the past age those we battled to preserve freedom were not as purely evil as the ones we will face during this Purification, nor did we face such important consequences. This battle will require all of our faith and courage as we fight for our place in heaven, tenaciously clinging to our

Earth Mother, unafraid to give up our lives here for final victory in the life and world to come.

Footnotes:

¹ N., Dr., Nonviolence, notes and films.

² Duncan, Ronald Editor: Selected Writings of Mahatma Gandhi, Beacon Press, Boston, 1951.

³ Holmes, Robert L., Nonviolence In Theory & Practice, Waveland Press, Inc., Prospect Heights, 1990.

⁴ Attenborough, Richard (Producer): Gandhi (film), 1982.

A Song To Earth

I sing a song of blue-green Earth, upon whose soil came forth our life,
A Mother pure, who gave us birth, and to whose living Heart is wife.

(Refrain)

To Earth's great womb, do we belong,
all we have from Her received,
So let us sing to Earth our song,
with joyful hearts, our words conceived.

(Refrain)

Sights fixed upon the Earth to come,
the promised home, free of all strife,
In gratitude, Her song is sung, carried with us to crowning life.

(Refrain)

Refrain

On bended knee, we bow and pray,
Eyes down to Earth, and not away,
Her children, who will never stray.
Upon our Rock, our Mother true,
We live and die, and are renewed.
My Mother, I belong to you.

